On Sentence Interpretation:

On Sentence Interpretation Lyn Frazier, 2011-10-23 At present there exists no empirically motivated theory of how perceivers assign a grammatically permissible interpretation to a sentence Implicit in many investigations of language comprehension is the idea that each constituent of a sentence is interpreted by the perceiver at the earliest conceivable point using all potentially relevant sources of information A variety of counter examples are presented to argue against this implicit theory of sentence interpretation It is argued that an explicit alternative theory is needed to specify which decisions are made at which points during interpretive processing and to spell out the principles governing the processor's preferred choice at points of ambiguity or uncertainty Several specific issues are taken concerning how the processor assigns a focal structure to an input sentence how it identifies the topic of the sentence how implicit restrictors on the domain of quantification are interpreted and how the identification of the content of a restrictor may guide the processor's use of discourse information Exploiting intuitions about preferred interpretations of ambiguous sentences as well as the results of both old and new experimental studies a theory of the preferred interpretation of Determiner Phrases is presented This work explores important but overlooked questions in on line sentence interpretation and attempts to erect some of the scaffolding for an eventual theory of sentence interpretation Approaches to Language: Data, Theory, and Explanation Ángel J.

Gallego, Aritz Irurtzun, 2020-12-24 The study of language has changed substantially in the last decades In particular the development of new technologies has allowed the emergence of new experimental techniques which complement more traditional approaches to data in linguistics like informal reports of native speakers judgments surveys corpus studies or fieldwork This move is an enriching feature of contemporary linguistics allowing for a better understanding of a phenomenon as complex as natural language where all sorts of factors internal and external to the individual interact Chomsky 2005 This has generated some sort of divergence not only in research approaches but also in the phenomena studied with an increasing specialization between subfields and accounts At the same time it has also led to subfield isolation and methodological a priori with some researchers even claiming that theoretical linguistics has little to offer to cognitive science see for instance Edelman Phillips den Dikken Bernstein Tortora Sprouse Sch tze Phillips 2013 Writing on the Margins D.
