Air Defense of Southeastern United States United States. Congress. House. Committee on Armed Services.

Subcommittee on Air Defense of Southeastern United States,1970     On Air Defense James D. Crabtree,1994-10-26 This book is a study of all aspects of air defense from its beginnings during the French Revolution when artillery gunners tried to hit primitive balloons with their cannons to the use of Patriot missiles in the Gulf War to shoot down tactical ballistic missiles Crabtree's history focuses on the development of tactics and technology from the Franco Prussian War to the present The strategic air defense of World War I and World War II are featured as are the development of surface to air missiles by Germany in World War II and by the United States and the USSR in Vietnam and the Middle East     Air Defense of Southeastern United States United States. Congress. House. Subcommittee on Air Defense of Southeastern United States,1970     U.S. Army Position on Air Defense for the Theater of Operations U.S. Army Air Defense Artillery School,1956 Examines the U.S. Army's position on air defense concepts weapons and equipment     Air Defense Artillery ,1995

History of the US Army Air Defense School U.S. Army Air Defense School,1965*     Surface-based Air Defense System Analysis Robert H. M. Macfadzean,1992 This book constitutes a multidisciplinary introduction to the analysis of air defence systems It supplies the tools to carry out independent analysis Individual sections deal with threat missions observability manoeuvrability and vulnerability With the support of several examples the text illustrates 12 air defence process models These models form the foundation for any air defence system analysis covering initial detection to kill assessment     History of Strategic and Ballistic Missile Defense: Volume I Barry Leonard,2010-11 As part of a larger study of the strategic arms competition which developed after World War II between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. this study of the two countries' strategies for air and ballistic missile defense addresses two broad subjects 1 How did each country approach the problem of defense against the threat from the air 2 Why did each country accent particular elements of an air defense strategy at various periods between 1945 and 1972 The first question concerns the means that leaders chose for defense against an increasingly sophisticated offensive threat Includes several appendices of chronologies tables charts maps and notes     Air Defense Trends ,1975     Complex Air Defense Tom Karako,Masao Dahlgren,2022-05-01 In the past five years Russia, China and others have accelerated their development of hypersonic missiles to threaten U.S. forces in the homeland and abroad The current Ballistic Missile Defense System largely equipped to contend with legacy ballistic missile threats must be adapted to this challenge The same characteristics that make hypersonic missiles attractive may also hold the key to defeating them This CSIS report argues how a new hypersonic defense architecture should exploit hypersonic weapons' unique vulnerabilities and employ new capabilities such as a space sensor layer to secure critical nodes These changes are not only necessary to mitigate the hypersonic threat but to defeat an emerging generation of maneuvering missiles and aerial threats     Archie to SAM Air University Press,U. S. Military,Department of Defense (DoD),Kenneth P.

Werrell, U. S. Air Force (USAF), 2017-09-30 Archie to SAM is an update in 2005 to Kenneth Werrell's Archie Flak AAA and SAM. He continues to study ground based air defense systems in new events including the Gulf War. In rescuing ground based air defense systems from long neglect, Werrell delves into such topics as tactics, leadership change, and innovation. Dr. Kenneth Werrell's history of ground based air defense performs an important service both to scholarship and more importantly to the defense of our nation's freedom. It is perhaps human nature that we tend over time to lose sight of the lessons of the past, especially when they do not conform to certain cherished preconceptions of ours. That such myopia can be dangerous if not downright disastrous, Dr. Werrell's study richly illustrates. Without sentimentalism, he chronicles a pattern of lessons learned and too quickly forgotten as the marvel of air power was reminded again and again of its limitations and vulnerability. In Korea and in Vietnam, the American people were stripped of their illusions of national and technical omnipotence. The unhappy outcome of those two conflicts was doubly lamentable because the lessons of World War II were or should have been fresh in our minds. In that world war as Dr. Werrell shows, relatively cheap ground based air defense did make a difference at Ploesti, at Antwerp, and at the Rhine bridges. And it will make a difference tomorrow. The greatest value of Dr. Werrell's work is that it provides guideposts and guidance for us as professional soldiers and aviators charged with upholding American security. We have taken history's lessons to heart as we plan and program our ground based air defenses into the next decade and beyond. In both the forward and the rear areas, we have emphasized the time honored principles of mass, mix, and mobility. No one weapon, not even today's modern aircraft, can do the job alone. The truism applies with particular force to antiaircraft defense. And at least one other truism emerges from Dr. Werrell's and our own studies: effective air defense requires a joint and combined effort. Our planning has been predicated on the assumption that counterair will play a central role in safeguarding our ground forces from air attack. On the ground, the air defense artillery will count on the cooperation and assistance of our colleagues in the infantry, armor, and field artillery. On our success or failure in working together to meet the challenges of tomorrow will rest our nation's future.
