Critical Analysis of August Wilson's "Ma Rainey's Black Bottom" Christina Lyons,2021-10-05 Academic Paper from the year 2006 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade A Southern Illinois University Carbondale Department of English course English Drama August Wilson language English abstract In his play Ma Rainey s Black Bottom opened at the Yale Repertory Theatre on April 6 1984 the African American playwright August Wilson evokes provocation individualism versus general conceptions of the Black man s world conservatism versus progressiveness and exploitation The play surprises by its unanticipated cruel ending is relatively poor in action but subtly embeds external conflicts respectively racial issues as well as internal conflicts trivial quarrels among the characters Since I see a crucial juxtaposition between two characters Toledo the intellectual and Levee the ignorant who theatrically become opponents in the final man slaughter scene I am focusing on a comparison between those two after a brief description of the plot and the set of characters The first third of the play bears a faint resemblance with Waiting for Godot because it depicts the impatient White producer and manager as well as the quarrelling Black band members waiting for their singer the famous Ma Rainey who takes her time getting her big black bottom to the rehearsal scheduled for 1 00 p m She banishes one band member ignorant conceited and vain Levee who is constantly seen polishing his shoes from future productions Levee dreams of establishing his own band anyway hoping to become famous with his more modern songs not this old jug band shit 16 that the White producer has promised to record with him However the latter retracts his offer offering him ridiculous five dollars for each of his songs leaving Levee stranded who is already so overheated that he overacts pulls his knife and in affect stabs his colleague Toledo who accidentally steps on his shiny shoe This shoe stepping scene which takes place on page 87 Hey Watch it shit You stepped on my shoe is foreshadowed by a similar event when another band member Slow Drag by mistake commits the same crime p 26 Damn Slow Drag Watch them big ass shoes you got The irony of the play is that the most understanding of all characters is killed for nothing for having left a tiny mark on the unstained immaculate eleven dollars worth of shoes

American Literature and Culture language English abstract This paper will be concerned with the possible ways of construction of identity or the loss of identity particularly the African American identity in the modern metropolis as it is described in August Wilson's play Ma Rainey's Black Bottom. Which ways to construct a proper identity present themselves to the characters in the play and what will happen when they fail to acknowledge and accept these ways? In this regard I will examine the relevance of music, society and Christian religion. Chapter Two will show that it is essential for the understanding of the alienation of the individual in this case specifically the alienation of the African American musician to take into consideration the differences between rural South and urban North and the different kinds of music connected to them. From the contrast of South and North i.e. rural and urban springs the conflict between the old down home blues and the new urban blues which will later become swing or jazz respectively. The chapter will further address the question which impact this conflict will have on the life scripts of the individual characters. Moreover the connection between the musician, his instrument and the music will be examined and explained. Chapter Three will explore the various facets of alienation and their respective sources in more detail. Moreover it will identify and further illuminate possible ways of forming identity and which processes endanger and impede the formation of identity. Therefore it is first necessary to diagnose how Wilson and his characters' actions describe the urban environment. Do these actions benefit or harm the formation of identity or do they promote alienation? Can music, religion or ancestral awareness help the city dweller?
