and film noir of the 1930s and 40s Early in the twentieth century American crime novelists like Dashiell Hammett and Raymond Chandler put forward a new kind of character the hard boiled detective as exemplified by Sam Spade in The Maltese Falcon Unlike the analytical detectives of nineteenth century fiction these new detectives encountered cases not as intricate logical puzzles but as stark challenges of manhood John T Irwin explores how the stories of these characters grapple with ideas of American masculinity Professional codes are pitted against personal desires resulting in either ruinous relationships or solitary integrity In thematic conflicts between independence and subordination all notions of manly independence prove subordinate to the hand of fate Tracing the stylistic development of the genre Irwin demonstrates the particular influence of the novel of manners especially the writing of F Scott Fitzgerald He also shows that as hard boiled fiction began to appear on the screen in film noir it took on themes of female empowerment just as women entered the workforce in large numbers Finally he discusses how these themes persist in contemporary dramatic series on television representing the conflicted lives of Americans into the twenty first century An Unofficial Companion to the Novels of Terry Pratchett Andrew M.
