Koolhaas Office for Metropolitan Architecture In 1989 the Office for Metropolitan Architecture developed a new architectural typology helmed by the Dutch architecture firm's founder Rem Koolhaas born 1944 The goal of this endeavor was to enact a project without form as part of an international competition to build a new national library in France In the OMA laboratory in Rotterdam experts from multiple different disciplines were able to work on this challenge at the same time Within this experimental multidisciplinary approach to design the mechanisms of project development and knowledge acquisition merge into increasingly abstract systems of representation The focus of the final design was the idea of the void an absence of form the solid square building would have gaps carved out of its exterior to represent the occasional rifts in memory inherent in human experience This volume presents the planning progress and legacy of the project drawing from interviews with various participants conducted by Holger Schurk The publication illuminates the hybrid processes of production and representation as part of the development of OMA's design for the Tr's Grande Biblioth que in Paris These are documented in numerous previously unpublished sketches drawings and photographs as well as sequences of video stills Dutchtown

It is part of the Museumpark, a park also designed by OMA and the location of the Netherlands Architectuurinstituut NAI, the Museum Boijmans Van Beuningen and the Museum of Natural History. The Kunsthall's exhibition space is divided into three large exhibition halls and two smaller galleries. The building also houses an auditorium and a restaurant. This outstanding space for art is a prime destination for countless architecture fans every year and is celebrated by Tibor Pataky, architect and architectural historian, in this inspiring book. He explains the history, the programmatic background and the cultural references of the design, which has been adapted several times. He also places it in the context of OMA's work of the 1980s and the intellectual environment of Deconstructivism.
