Omnidirectional Stereo Vision for Autonomous Vehicles Schoenbein, Miriam, 2015-04-22 Environment perception with cameras is an important requirement for many applications for autonomous vehicles and robots This work presents a stereoscopic omnidirectional camera system for autonomous vehicles which resolves the problem of a limited field of view and provides a 360 panoramic view of the environment We present a new projection model for these cameras and show that the camera setup overcomes major drawbacks of traditional perspective cameras in many applications

Omnidirectional Vision Pascal Vasseur, Fabio Morbidi, 2023-12-12 Omnidirectional cameras vision sensors that can capture 360 images have in recent years had growing success in computer vision robotics and the entertainment industry In fact modern omnidirectional cameras are compact lightweight and inexpensive and are thus being integrated in an increasing number of robotic platforms and consumer devices However the special format of output data requires tools that are appropriate for camera calibration signal analysis and image interpretation This book is divided into six chapters written by world renowned scholars In a rigorous yet accessible way the mathematical foundation of omnidirectional vision is presented from image geometry and camera calibration to image processing for central and non central panoramic systems Special emphasis is given to fisheye cameras and catadioptric systems which combine mirrors with lenses The main applications of omnidirectional vision including 3D scene reconstruction and robot localization and navigation are also surveyed Finally the recent trend towards AI infused methods deep learning architectures and other emerging research directions are discussed

Innovations in Intelligent Machines - 1 Javaan Singh Chahl, Akiko Mizutani, Mika Sato-Ilic, 2007-07-07 Innovations in Intelligent Machines is a very timely volume that takes a fresh look on the recent attempts of instilling human like intelligence into computer controlled devices By contrast to the machine intelligence research of the last two decades the recent work in this area recognises explicitly the fact that human intelligence is not purely computational but that it also has an element of empirical validation interaction with the environment Also recent research recognises that human intelligence does not always prevent one from making errors but it equips one with the ability to learn from m takes The latter is the basic premise for the development of the collaborative swarm intelligencethatdemonstratesthevalueofthevirtualexperiencepool assembled from cases of successful and unsuccessful execution of a particular algorithm The editors are to be complemented for their vision of designing a fra work within which they ask some fundamental questions about the nature of intelligence in general and intelligent machines in particular and illustrate answers to these questions with speci c practical system implementations in the consecutive chapters of the book

Advances in Visual Computing Richard Boyle, Bahram Parvin, Darko Koracin, Ronald Chung, Hammoud, Muhammad Hussain, Kar-Han Tan, Roger Crawfis, Daniel Thalmann, David Kao, Lisa Avila, 2010-11-19 It is with great pleasure that we present the proceedings of the 6th Inter tional Symposium on Visual Computing ISVC 2010 which was held in Las Vegas Nevada ISVC provides a common umbrella for the four main areas of visual computing including vision graphics visualization and virtual reality The goal is to provide a forum for researchers scientists engineers and pr titioners throughout the world to present their latest research ndings ideas developments and applications in the broader area of visual computing This year the program consisted of 14 oral sessions one poster session 7 special tracks and 6 keynote presentations The response to the call for papers was very good we received over 300 submissions for the main symposium from which we accepted 93 papers for oral presentation and 73 papers for poster p sentation Special track papers were solicited separately through the Organizing and Program Committees of each track A total of 44 papers were accepted for oral presentation and 6 papers for poster presentation in the special tracks

Self-Calibration of Multi-Camera Systems Ferid Bajramovic, 2010 Multi camera systems play an increasingly important role in computer vision They enable applications like 3D video reconstruction motion capture smart homes wide area surveillance etc Most of these require or benefit from a calibration of the multi camera system This book presents a novel approach for automatically estimating that calibration In contrast to established methods it neither requires a calibration object nor any user interaction From a theoretical point of view this book also presents and solves the novel graph theoretical problem of finding shortest triangle paths
