Ultraviolet-Visible Spectrophotometry in Pharmaceutical Analysis S. Gorog, 2018-01-10

This book provides an overview of the state of the art in pharmaceutical applications of UV VIS spectroscopy. This book presents the fundamentals for the beginner and for the expert discusses both qualitative and quantitative analysis problems. Several chapters focus on the determination of drugs in various matrices the coupling of chromatographic and spectrophotometric methods and the problems associated with the use of chemical reactions prior to spectrophotometric measurements. The final chapter provides a survey of the spectrophotometric determination of the main families of drugs emphasizing the achievements of the last decade

Laser Science and Technology A.N. Chester, V.S. Letokhov, S.

Martellucci, 2012-12-06 The conference Laser Science and Technology was held May 11-19 1987 in Erice Sicily. This was the 12th conference organized by the International School of Quantum Electronics under the auspices of the Ettore Majorana Center for Scientific Culture. This volume contains both the invited and contributed papers presented at the conference covering current research work in two areas new laser sources and laser applications. The operation of the first laser by Dr. Theodore Maiman in 1960 initiated a decade of scientific exploration of new laser sources. This was followed by the decade of the 1970s which was characterized by technology push in which the discoveries of the 1960s were seeking practical application. In the 1980s we are instead seeking applications pull in which the success and rapid maturing of laser applications provides both inspiration and financial resources to stimulate additional work both on laser sources and applications. The papers presented in these Proceedings attest to the great vitality of research in both these areas. New Laser Sources The papers describe current developments in ultra violet excimer lasers, X ray lasers and free electron lasers. These new lasers share several characteristics each is a potentially important coherent source each is at a relatively short wavelength below 1 micrometer and each is receiving significant development attention today

Serials & Annuals, 1986    Books in Print, 1991    UV-VIS Spectroscopy and Its Applications Heinz-Helmut Perkampus, 2013-03-08 UV VIS spectroscopy is one of the oldest methods in molecular spectroscopy. The definitive formulation of the Bouguer-Lambert-Beer law in 1852 created the basis for the quantitative evaluation of absorption measurements at an early date. This led firstly to colorimetry, then to photometry and finally to spectrophotometry. This evolution ran parallel with the development of detectors for measuring light intensities, i.e. from the human eye via the photo element and photocell to the photomultiplier and from the photographic plate to the present silicon diode detector, both of which allow simultaneous measurement of the complete spectrum. With the development of quantum chemistry, increasing attention was paid to the correlation between light absorption and the structure of matter, with the result that in recent decades a number of excellent discussions of the theory of electronic spectroscopy UV VIS and luminescence spectroscopy have been published. Consequently, this extremely interesting aspect of molecular spectroscopy has dominated the teaching of the subject both in my own lectures and those of others. However, it is often overlooked that in addition to the theory, applications of spectroscopic methods are of particular interest to scientists. For this reason, a lecture series about electronic spectroscopy given in the Institute for Physical Chemistry at the Heinrich Heine University in Düsseldorf was supplemented by one about UV VIS spectroscopy and its applications. This formed the basis of the present book Bibliographic Index
