Matters Of Mind The University In Ontario 1791 1951:

Matters of Mind A. B. McKillop, 1994 The only comprehensive history of the formative years of higher education in Ontario this volume examines the shifting nature of moral intellectual and social authority as reflected in the development of Ontario's colleges and universities With special emphasis on social experience and intellectual life McKillop gives sustained attention to what was included and what was not in the teaching of subjects such as theology classics history English political science law medicine engineering business psychology and sociology His insights reveal the imperatives that shaped these disciplines and others in distinctively Canadian ways Founded in the nineteenth century by various Christian denominations the universities of Ontario initially reflected the acrimony and competition that existed between those denominations Regardless of religious affiliation however the university founders saw their purpose as the preservation of a basically conservative social order The deeply held sense of continuity of a cultural memory rooted in the moral authority of Christianity and in British institutions and values profoundly shaped higher education in the province especially in the humanities However the market driven tenets of an industrial economy took hold in Canada precisely in the years when the universities were founded Colleges and universities founded to train clergy and a professional elite and to provide a liberal education were challenged and gradually transformed by values that linked them to the needs of commerce and industry The universities were bound to demonstrate their social utility by creating practical and scientific programs Each university in the province rose in its own way to the challenges posed by the acceptance and increasing enrolment of women by political economic and social issues outside the universities and by the close intertwining of the university in Ontario especially the University of Toronto with the political culture of the province BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Canadian Intellectuals, the Tory Tradition, and the Challenge of

Modernity, 1939-1970 Philip Massolin, 2015-05-27 In this well researched book Philip Massolin takes a fascinating look at the forces of modernization that swept through English Canada beginning at the turn of the twentieth century Victorian values agrarian religious and the adherence to a rigid set of philosophical and moral codes were being replaced with those intrinsic to the modern age industrial secular scientific and anti intellectual This work analyses the development of a modern consciousness through the eyes of the most fervent critics of modernity adherents to the moral and value systems associated with Canada's tory tradition The work and thought of social and moral critics Harold Innis Donald Creighton Vincent Massey Hilda Neatby George P Grant W L Morton Northrop Frye and Marshall McLuhan are considered for their views of modernization and for their strong opinions on the nature and implications of the modern age These scholars shared concerns over the dire effects of modernity and the need to attune Canadians to the realities of the modern age Whereas most Canadians were oblivious to the effects of modernization these critics perceived something ominous far from being a sign of true progress modernization was a blight on cultural development In spite of the efforts of these critics Canada emerged as a fully modern nation by the 1970s Because of the triumph of modernity the toryism that the critics advocated ceased to be a defining feature of the nation s life Modernization in short contributed to the passing of an intellectual tradition centuries in the making and rapidly led to the ideological underpinnings of today s modern Canada The Professionalization of History in English Canada Donald A. Wright,2005-01-01 The study of history in Canada has a history of its own and its development as an academic discipline is a multifaceted one The Professionalization of History in English Canada charts the transition of the study of history from a leisurely pastime to that of a full blown academic career for university trained scholars from the mid nineteenth to the late twentieth century Donald Wright argues that professionalization was not in fact a benign process nor was it inevitable It was deliberate Within two generations historians saw the creation of a professional association the Canadian Historical Association and rise of an academic journal the Canadian Historical Review Professionalization was also gendered In an effort to raise the status of the profession and protect the academic labour market for men male historians made a concerted effort to exclude women from the academy History s professionalization is best understood as a transition from one way of organizing intellectual life to another What came before professionalization was not necessarily inferior but rather a different perspective of history As well Wright argues convincingly that professionalization inadvertently led to a popular inverse the amateur historian whose work is often more widely received and appreciated by the general public

Faithful Intellect Neil Semple,2005 In 1850 Samuel Nelles a well educated Methodist minister was selected to resuscitate the debt ridden and declining Victoria University As principal and later as president and chancellor he fought against shortsighted government educational policies while making the school into one of the premier universities in Canada A true academic Nelles believed in the importance of testing assumed laws dogmas and creeds However his pursuit of intellectual inquiry was always guided by a rational faith in God as well as the expectation of the future greatness and goodness of humanity Faithful Intellect expands the reader s understanding of many of the key intellectual religious and political concerns of nineteenth century English Canada while providing an essential contribution to the study of Canada s system of higher education

No Place to Learn Thomas C Pocklington, Allan Tupper, 2011-11-01 The Red Cross is studied and criticized The Royal Family is studied and criticized Churches and hospitals are studied and criticized Canadian universities are seldom studied and criticized and are worse off for this neglect This book seeks to repair this damage by casting a critical eye on how Canadian universities work or fail to work Arguing that too much emphasis is placed on specialized research and too little on teaching No Place to Learn contends that students seeking higher education in Canada are being short changed In clear non technical language the book explains the priorities of Canadian universities and outlines several practical reforms that would greatly improve them If you ve never known what deans do what tenure is and what professors do when they re not teaching No Place to Learn is a must read an eye opening introduction that raises serious questions about the state of higher education in Canada Current students prospective students and their parents will not want to miss this book while professors and administrators would be wise to take note of it
