National Strategy For Homeland Security:

National Strategy for Homeland Security, 2002 National Strategy for Homeland Security United States. Office of Homeland Security, 2002 National Strategy for Homeland Security, 2002 This document is the first National Strategy for Homeland Security The purpose of the Strategy is to mobilize and organize our National Strategy for Homeland Security George W. Bush, 2009-04 Since the turn of the millennium our Nation has endured history's deadliest attack of international terrorism and the most destructive natural disaster to strike American soil In the face of these challenges America has responded courageously with focus and clarity of purpose and today we are safer stronger and better prepared to address the full range of catastrophic events including man made accidents and natural disasters that threaten us Our work however is far from over We remain resolute in our commitment to prevent and disrupt terrorist attacks in the Homeland protect the American people and the Nation's critical infrastructure and key resources and effectively respond to and recover from those incidents that do occur Working together our Nation will secure the Homeland in order to sustain our way of life now and for generations to come National Strategy for Homeland Security Executive Office of the United States, Homeland Council, 2012-12-11 America is at war with terrorist enemies who are intent on attacking our Homeland and destroying our way of life The lives and livelihoods of the American people also remain at risk from natural catastrophes including naturally occurring infectious diseases and hazards such as hurricanes and earthquakes and man made accidents Our National Strategy for Homeland Security recognizes that while we must continue to focus on the persistent and evolving terrorist threat we also must address the full range of potential catastrophic events including man made and natural disasters due to their implications for homeland security The purpose of our Strategy is to guide organize and unify our Nation's homeland security efforts It provides a common framework by which our entire Nation should focus its efforts on the following four goals Prevent and disrupt terrorist attacks Protect the American people our critical infrastructure and key resources Respond to and recover from incidents that do occur and Continue to strengthen the foundation to ensure our long term success While the first three goals help to organize our national efforts the last goal entails creating and transforming our homeland security principles systems structures and institutions This includes applying a comprehensive approach to risk management building a culture of preparedness developing a comprehensive Homeland Security Management System improving incident management better utilizing science and technology and leveraging all instruments of national power and influence Homeland security requires a truly national effort with shared goals and responsibilities for protecting and defending the Homeland Our Strategy leverages the unique strengths and capabilities of all levels of government the private and non profit sectors communities and individual citizens Mindful that many of the threats we face do not recognize geographic boundaries we also will continue to work closely with our international partners throughout the world This updated Strategy which builds directly from the first National Strategy for Homeland Security issued in July 2002 reflects our increased understanding of the terrorist threats confronting the United States today incorporates lessons learned from exercises and real world catastrophes including Hurricane Katrina and proposes new initiatives and approaches that will enable the Nation to achieve our homeland security objectives This Strategy also complements both the National Security Strategy issued in March 2006 and the National Strategy for Combating Terrorism issued in September 2006 Our first and most solemn obligation is to protect the American people The National Strategy for Homeland Security will guide our Nation as we honor this commitment and achieve a more secure Homeland that sustains our way of life as a free prosperous and welcoming America

National Strategy for Homeland Security , National Strategy for Homeland Security George W. Bush,2005 Homeland Security Norman J. Rabkin (au),2005-09 Homeland Security ,2004 The United States has a new cabinet level department and this is the presidential report that launched it Risk Assessment in the President's National Strategy for Homeland Security Rob Buschmann,Library of Congress. Congressional Research Service,2002 Agency Plans, Implementation, and Challenges Regarding the National Strategy for Homeland Security Congress. House. Committee on Government Reform. Subcommittee on National Security, Emerging Threats, and International Relations,2005 The National Strategy for Homeland Security sets forth a plan to improve homeland security through the cooperation of federal state local and private sector organizations on an array of functions These functions are organized into the six distinct critical mission areas of 1 intelligence and warning 2 border and transportation security 3 domestic counterterrorism 4 protecting critical infrastructures and key assets 5 defending against catastrophic threats and 6 emergency preparedness and response Within each of these mission areas the strategy identifies major initiatives to be addressed In all the strategy cites 43 initiatives across the six mission areas

National Strategy for Information Sharing: Successes and Challenges in Improving Terrorism-Related Information Sharing ,2007 Our success in preventing future terrorist attacks depends upon our ability to gather analyze and share information and intelligence regarding those who want to attack us the tactics that they use and the targets that they intend to attack Improving information sharing in the post September 11 world requires an environment that supports the sharing of information across all levels of government disciplines and security domains While this Strategy describes the vision that has guided the Administration for the past six years it also sets forth our plan to build upon progress and establish a more integrated information sharing capability to ensure that those who need information to protect our Nation from terrorism will receive it and those who have that information will share it We will improve interagency information sharing at the Federal level while building information sharing bridges between the Federal Government and our non Federal partners The National Strategy for Information Sharing takes its lead from the President s National Security Strategy which provides the broad vision and goals for confronting the national security challenges of the 21st century In addition it is closely aligned with the National Strategy for Combating Terrorism and the National Strategy for Homeland Security This Strategy also supports and supplements the National Implementation Plan which is the foundational document guiding the efforts of the Directorate of Strategic Operational Planning in the National Counterterrorism Center Finally this Strategy aligns with the National Intelligence Strategy published at Presidential direction by the Director of National Intelligence in October 2005 An information sharing framework is recognized as a critical component of intelligence reform in the National Intelligence Strategy Terrorism and Homeland Security Paul Viotti, Michael Opheim, Nicholas Bowen, 2008-06-17 Despite the fact that the Department of Homeland Security DHS has been active since November of 2002 the American homeland is still not secure from terrorist attack What passes as DHS strategy is often just a list of objectives with vague references to the garnering of national resources and the marshalling of support from other nations Drawi

The National Strategy For Homeland Security, July 2002, * ,2002* National Strategy for the Physical Protection of Critical Infrastructures and Key Assets United States. Department of Homeland Security, 2003 The National Strategy for Physical Protection of Critical Infrastructures and Key Assets serves as a critical bridge between the National Strategy for Homeland Security and a national protection plan to be developed by the Department of Homeland Security Terrorism and Homeland Security Paul Viotti, Michael Opheim, Nicholas Bowen, 2008-06-17 Despite the fact that the Department of Homeland Security DHS has been active since November of 2002 the American homeland is still not secure from terrorist attack What passes as DHS strategy is often just a list of objectives with vague references to the garnering of national resources and the marshalling of support from other nations Drawi NATIONAL PREPAREDNESS: Integration of Federal, State, Local, and Private Sector Efforts Is Critical to an Effective National Strategy for Homeland Security, 2002 This report discusses issues critical to developing and coordinating a national strategy to better prepare our nation against terrorist events Although we can never be 100 percent secure from terrorist attack nor 100 percent prepared to respond to any contingency we can be better prepared and more secure Federal state and local governments have a shared responsibility in preparing for catastrophic terrorist attacks but the initial responsibility falls upon local governments and their organizations such as police fire departments emergency medical personnel and public health agencies which will almost invariably be the first responders to such an occurrence GAO recommends the development of a central focus and a national strategy that will improve national preparedness and enhance partnerships between federal state and local governments to guard against and respond to terrorist attacks Key aspects of this strategy should include 1 a definition and clarification of the appropriate roles and responsibilities of federal state and local entities 2 direction and guidance for federal agencies and partnerships with state and local governments and the private sector to better coordinate their missions and more effectively contribute to the overarching homeland security effort 3 establishment of goals and performance indicators to guide the nation s preparedness efforts and 4 a careful choice of the most appropriate tools of government to best implement the national strategy and achieve national goals Homeland Security - The National Strategy; U.S. Northern Command's and the U.S. Navy's Roles in Homeland Defense and Civil Support, 2004 Even though

Americans have seen the consequences of terror on their homeland as a result of the attacks in Oklahoma City in 1995 and on the World Trade Center in 1993 the majority of U S citizens still could not fathom the contemplation of a true catastrophic attack on our soil until September 11 2001 In the past thoughts of disasters and emergencies were limited to small rare and relatively short lived incidents primarily related to natural disasters September 11th presented our nation with a new challenge that is much more complex and difficult to deal with This paper will present an overview analysis of two pieces of the overall Homeland Security policy the National Strategy for Homeland Security and the Department of Defense s DoD support roles The paper will review the Nation s civil defense history since World War II and analyze the recently released National Strategy for Homeland Security The military s efforts to perform its mission of homeland defense while homeland security and civil support become increasingly important will be discussed The role of the military s support to civil authorizes both before and after a domestic incident is increasing in complexity and frequency DoD s current approach to Homeland Security will be discussed and possible new military tasks will be provided Finally I will offer recommendations to improve the national strategy and the U S Navy s support role to be better prepared to defend the Homeland and provide support to Civil Authorities

National Strategy for the Physical Protection of Critical Infrastructures and Key Assets United States. Department of Homeland Security, 2003 The National Strategy for Physical Protection of Critical Infrastructures and Key Assets serves as a critical bridge between the National Strategy for Homeland Security and a national protection plan to be developed by the Department of Homeland Security

Securing Our Homeland , 2004 The attack on our homeland of September 11 2001 was an assault on the ideals that make our nation great We were reminded that the values we hold dear must not be taken for granted From these tragic events a stronger union has emerged Our citizens and those of countries around the world renewed their commitment to this nation and to the values for which it stands In January of 2003 the United States Government established the Department of Homeland Security to focus America s efforts to thwart those who seek to do us harm The Department has an overriding and urgent mission secure the American homeland and protect the American people The President s National Strategy for Homeland Security outlined the basic purpose behind establishing the Department and provided an overview of its homeland security responsibilities The Department s Strategic Plan interprets the National Strategy for Homeland Security and prescribes the vision for our workforce our stakeholders and the American people The Department s strategic goals and objectives are directly linked to accomplishing the three objectives of the National Strategy 1 Prevent terrorist attacks within the United States 2 Reduce America s vulnerability to terrorism and 3 Minimize the damage and recover from attacks that do occur The Department s Strategic Plan governs the development of strategies programs and projects and ultimately is reflected in the Department s budget Our plan reflects the determination of our nation to prevail against terror to protect our homeland and to create a better world in the process Describing who we are and what we do it conveys the beliefs and values that govern our conduct

It outlines what we will accomplish This document provides the vision and direction as well as the goals and objectives for the Department while our detailed budget plan describes how we will achieve results
