Textilforum ,1996      Siho and Naga--Lao Textiles Edeltraud Tagwerker,2009 Siho and Naga are the most powerful mythological figures in Lao tradition manifested in their textiles This book focuses on the history and culture of the creators of exquisitely hand woven fabrics that have attracted textile connoisseurs all over the world The study leads not only to rare weaving techniques patterns and natural dyes but also to a vast ethnic diversity of people who used to live self sufficiently of their natural environment in rural areas or under royal patronage in ancient cities Textiles have always been an integral part of the social and spiritual life of Lao people who now after a devastating war are challenged to come to terms with tourism cash and global market strategies Siho and Naga shall raise awareness for urgent educational reform countrywide and encourage local and international preservers of Lao culture to continue their efforts to the benefit of Lao s young generation who eventually will grasp the value of their own textiles in order to set them against cheap imports      Thailand Handbook ,1999      Fibershed Rebecca Burgess,Courtney White,2019-11-19 Fibershed is a story of vision persistence and kindness With patience and grace Rebecca has restored a sense of gratitude for the overlooked grasses and herbaceous plants that were once our second skin From the living world around her she has stitched together the broken strands of textile arts creating an economy of place where makers are artists and clothing is revered Paul Hawken author of Carbon A new farm to closet vision for the clothes we wear by a leader in the movement for local textile economies There is a major disconnect between what we wear and our knowledge of its impact on land air water labor and human health Even those who value access to safe local nutritious food have largely overlooked the production of fiber dyes and the chemistry that forms the backbone of modern textile production While humans are 100 percent reliant on their second skin it s common to think little about the biological and human cultural context from which our clothing derives Almost a decade ago weaver and natural dyer Rebecca Burgess developed a project focused on wearing clothing made from fiber grown woven and sewn within her bioregion of North Central California As she began to network with ranchers farmers and artisans she discovered that even in her home community there was ample raw material being grown to support a new regional textile economy with deep roots in climate change prevention and soil restoration A vision for the future came into focus combining right livelihoods and a textile system based on economic justice and soil carbon enhancing practices Burgess saw that we could create viable supply chains of clothing that could become the new standard in a world looking to solve the climate crisis In Fibershed readers will learn how natural plant dyes and fibers such as wool cotton hemp and flax can be grown and processed as part of a scalable restorative agricultural system They will also learn about milling and other technical systems needed to make regional textile production possible Fibershed is a resource for fiber farmers ranchers contract grazers weavers knitters slow fashion entrepreneurs soil activists and conscious consumers who want to join or create their own fibershed and topple outdated and toxic systems of exploitation Forgotten Agricultural Heritage Parviz Koochafkan, Miguel A. Altieri, 2016-11-25 Contemporary agriculture is often criticized for its industrial scale adverse effects on nutrition rural employment and the environment and its disconnectedness from nature and culture Yet there are many examples of traditional smaller scale systems that have survived the test of time and provide more sustainable solutions while still maintaining food security in an era of climate change This book provides a unique compilation of this forgotten agricultural heritage and is based on objective scientific evaluation and evidence of the value of these systems for present and future generations The authors refer to many of these systems as Globally Important Agricultural Heritage Systems GIAHS and show how they are related to the concepts of heritage and the World Heritage Convention They demonstrate how GIAHS based on family farms traditional indigenous knowledge and agroecological principles can contribute to food and nutrition security and the maintenance of agro biodiversity and environmental resilience as well as sustain local cultures economies and societies Two substantial chapters are devoted to descriptions and assessments of some 50 examples of designated and potential GIAHS from around the world including rice fish culture in China mountain terrace systems in Asia coffee agroforestry in Latin America irrigation systems and land and water management in Iran and India pastoralism in East Africa and the dehesa agrosilvopastoral system of Spain and Portugal The book concludes by providing policy and technical solutions for sustainable agriculture and rural development through the enhancement of these systems Buddhist Stupa (phra Chedi) Architecture of Thailand Karl Döhring, 2000 Handwoven Textiles of South-East Asia Sylvia Fraser-Lu, 1988 This beautifully illustrated pioneering work surveys the history and techniques of textile production past and present in South East Asia offering important insights into the economic social and religious life of the people Thailand's Coral Reefs Collin
