Outback Station:

Outback Stations Daniel McIntosh, 2014 A pictorial celebration of Australia as seen through the eyes of people working on the land In March 2013 Dan McIntosh had an idea A station cook and keen photographer he wanted to share the pictures he had taken of the outback life he loved so much Encouraged by his sister he started a community Facebook page called Station Photos Dan wasn't expecting much but within days the bush telegraph kicked in and pretty soon thousands of people were liking and contributing their own photos to the page A year on Station Photos has almost 50 000 followers and a staggering 30 million views from around the world What people love so much about Station Photos is that it's real Real people taking photos on their phones and cameras of what makes them laugh and cry the land they love their kids their mates and their animals It's a way of life that most Australians living in the cities and along the coast never get to experience yet it embodies so much of the spirit and folklore of Australia Outback Stations was born from a competition on the Station Photos page to show a day in the life of an outback station The response was positively overwhelming and the very best of the images are featured in this book Like the Facebook page this book is a celebration of country Australia and the way we live and enjoy life on the land

Outback Stations Evan McHugh, 2012-07-25 From the helicopter I could see the property's waterholes surrounded by paperbark trees its red stone cliffs lit by the rising sun And grass endless seas of grass Here was the vision splendid Nat Buchanan's grass castle Gurindji country And my country Australia This is big country the outback home to the largest cattle and sheep stations in the world Yet few of us know what goes on behind the farm gate What's life really like when next door is 500 kilometres away and a day's work involves mustering livestock in their tens of thousands dealing with extreme heat and backbreaking physical labour Bestselling author Evan McHugh heads down the road to find out He goes behind the scenes at Adria Downs in the dead heart of Central Australia helps drive cattle from the air at Wave Hill and gets a lesson trapping dingoes at the remote Commonwealth Hill McHugh reveals the fascinating history of these outback stations and what it takes to work on one today Outback Stations is about as Australian as damper and dust Weekly Times Outback Station A.
