Loyalists and Loners Michael Foot, 1986-01 Loyalists and Loners Michael Foot, 1986 This is a collection of Michael Foot's essays. The volume is split into four categories: A Labour Party Gallery, Four Prime Ministers, A Miscellany of Cross Breeds, and Some True Prophets.

Eminent Parliamentarians Philip Norton, 2012-10-22 To celebrate the centenary of the 1911 Parliament Act, John Bercow, Speaker of the House of Commons, instigated a series of public lectures in which current parliamentarians assessed the careers and characters of parliamentary giants. The result was a sequence of fascinating appraisals covering a distinguished but eclectic array of politicians who made a name for themselves not only in the House of Commons but also throughout the country. The subjects of the lectures came from diverse backgrounds, advocated very different political philosophies, and indeed some make surprising bedfellows. But they all had one thing in common: driven by a set of particular beliefs, they were prepared to do whatever was necessary in pursuit of their goals. From Nicholas Soames's warm familial tribute to his grandfather Winston Churchill to Neil Kinnock's account of an affectionate though sometimes fraught relationship with Michael Foot, the roll call of both lecturers and subjects is outstanding. With his subject sitting in the audience, Tristram Hunt delivers the lecture on Tony Benn. Shirley Williams looks at the life of Nancy Astor, the first woman to take her seat in Parliament. Philip Norton and Peter Tapsell tackle the towering figures of Enoch Powell and F. E. Smith as an authority on his subject. Kenneth Morgan discusses David Lloyd George, while fellow historian Gordon Marsden speaks on Aneurin Bevan. Douglas Hurd reflects on the life of Iain Macleod, and Andrew Adonis and John Whittingdale both provide an insider's insight into the parliamentary lives of Roy Jenkins and Margaret Thatcher. With a foreword by John Bercow and an introduction by Philip Norton, this is an impressive collection of lectures delivered by expert speakers on the most eminent of parliamentarians.

Social vs Solitary Olivia Clark, 2025-02-26 Social vs Solitary delves into the fascinating world of animal behavior, examining why some species thrive in social groups while others prefer a solitary existence. Exploring the evolutionary advantages and disadvantages tied to different lifestyles, the book reveals how factors like resource availability and environmental pressures shape these contrasting behaviors. Intriguingly, the evolution of altruism, where animals act selflessly for the benefit of others, is a key focus alongside understanding how competition impacts social structures. The book adopts a comparative approach, using case studies from insects to mammals to illustrate core principles It synthesizes established theories in behavioral ecology and evolutionary biology highlighting the physiological adaptations that come with different lifestyles By integrating ecological evolutionary and physiological perspectives Social vs Solitary presents a holistic view moving beyond simple comparisons to explore the intricacies of social and solitary behaviors The chapters progress from fundamental concepts to specific examples culminating in a discussion of implications for conservation biology offering a valuable resource for students researchers and anyone fascinated by the natural world New Democrat ,1985 Doing Politics Tony Wright,2012-03-01 A dose of sense from the voice of parliamentary reason Throughout the expenses scandal and the lobbying scandal and all the other storms which have buffeted Parliament Dr Tony Wright is the one MP who has consistently provided a measured sane and sensible reaction to events As Chair of the influential Public Administration Committee he has risen above party and partisan politics to offer a sometimes lone voice of reason His new book considers the wider implications of the various political ructions and the public reaction to them and argues that if we want to defend politics then we also have to defend politicians the class of people is intrinsic to the activity Somebody has to do the messy business of accommodating conflicting demands and interests choosing between competing options negotiating unwelcome trade offs and taking responsibility for decisions that often represent the least worst course of action That somebody is politicians They give voice to our hopes but they also inevitably feed our disappointments even if their name is Obama From one of our most erudite intellectually rigorous yet sensible politicians Doing Politics is just the book the nation needs Arthur Koestler David Cesarani,1999 Arthur Koestler best known for his world famous novel Darkness at Noon stands as a cultural beacon in the post 1945 world Along with Sartre Camus and Orwell he helped to shape the ideas of today This major reassessment based on groundbreaking and comprehensive research sets Koestler's life and thoughts against the tumultuous century he chronicled and explores fully for the first time the continuing drama of his private life as a lover a husband and a Jew David Cesarani paints an explosive portrait of Koestler that bridges the gulf separating public and private life contrasting the work of a genius against the backdrop of his tormented soul and brutal private life In England Cesarani's revelations led to the removal of Koestler's bust at the University of Edinburgh so strong were the feelings roused by his dissection of Koestler as a thinker and as a man A central European Jew born in 1905 Koestler was molded by his times Uprooted by war and revolution and hounded by prejudice he struggled to make sense of a world on the edge of apocalypse His search for meaning identity and belonging swept him up in the raging ideological torrents of his times Zionism Communism anti Communism and both hard scientific and esoteric mystical pursuits and culminated in an idiosyncratic and deeply personal ideological position that has confused and eluded critics and commentators Equally restless in his personal relationships Koestler made and broke friendships and marriages His violent affairs with women were legendary but until now the shocking details of his private life were hidden from view by loyal friends and obscured by the Olympian prose of his autobiographical writing Cesarani is the first to make unrestricted use of Koestler's private papers. He also draws on previously secret documents held by the KGB and FBI which expose the depth of Koestler's involvement in the Communist Party and later his relations with the CIA. Once a Communist, Koestler eventually rejected Marxism and led the intellectual counterattack that culminated in the fall of the Berlin Wall. His speculations on human nature and the future of mankind in the atomic age were stamped upon a generation that lived in the shadow of the bomb. But alongside his brilliance and charm was a darker side fully plumbed here for the first time which led ultimately to the tragic dual suicide with his third wife Cynthia in 1983. With Arthur Koestler: The Homeless Mind, David Cesarani has ensured Koestler's place in the pantheon of the intellectual giants of the twentieth century as surely as his forceful provocative and groundbreaking study is guaranteed to reignite the controversy that swirled around Koestler in his life and his death in his work and his actions.

Mrs. Thatcher's Revolution Peter Jenkins, 1988 Margaret Hilda Thatcher, Baroness Thatcher, LG, OM, PC, FRS, nee Roberts, born 13 October 1925, is a British politician, the longest serving 1979–1990 Prime Minister of the United Kingdom of the 20th century and the only woman ever to have held the post. As Prime Minister, she implemented Conservative policies that have come to be known as Thatcherism. Wikipedia

The Bairns O' Adam Keith Aitken, 1997 Offering an account of the characters behind the movement and the great events both industrial and political which have shaped Scotland's past and present, this work traces the story of the STUC from its inception.

Democracy in Crisis? A. H. Halsey, Roy Hattersley, 2007 Posits the theory that democracy, ethical as well as Marxist, is in crisis, threatened by the remorseless re-penetration of the public sector by market and quasi-market principles. Can the tide be turned? This book aims to provide food for thought for those interested in the fundamental problems facing the world in the twenty-first century.

The Politics of Paradise Michael Foot, 1988 This is a major new analysis of this freedom-loving poet who was at once the most admired and the most vilified artist of his age.

A Question of Leadership Peter Clarke, 1992 Britain in the 20th century is in many senses uncharted territory for historians, territory by and large left to sociologists and political theorists. In a series of essays on British political leaders from Gladstone and Salisbury through Lloyd George, Churchill and Attlee to Thatcher, Peter Clarke looks at the questions of how individual leaders have shaped the history of the UK, interacting with the social and economic forces beloved of sociologists, tackling the questions of how important is political leadership and how much is history determined by socio-economic trends and how much by the decisions of individuals.

Never a Yes Man Eric Heffer, 1991 Eric Heffer was probably one of the most influential figures on the left of the British Labour Party. He was Member of Parliament for Walton, Liverpool, and in 1991 he received the Freedom of the City of Liverpool. His autobiography provides an insider's view of the politics and personalities of nearly three decades of Labour politics. A born rebel, Heffer was kicked out of the Communist Party for desertion, sacked from Harold Wilson's government and was a thorn in the side of Kinnock's leadership. His book contains an attack on the rightward drift of the Labour Party's present leadership which remains crucial to the debate surrounding the future direction of the Labour Party
