Outer City:

Dynamic Interpretation of Early Cities in Ancient China Hong Xu, 2021-06-14 This book offers an archaeological study on China's ancient capitals. Using abundant illustrations of ancient capital sites, it verifies the archaeological discoveries with documentary records. The author introduces the dynamical interpretation of each ancient capital to the interpretation of the entire development history of China's ancient capitals. The book points out that for most of the almost 2000 years from the earliest Erlitou to the Ye city, there was an era where ancient capitals didn't have outer enclosures due to factors such as the strong national power, the military and diplomatic advantage, the complexity of the residents, and the natural conditions. Thus, an era of the huge ancient capitals without guards lasting for over 1000 years formed. The concept that China's ancient capitals don't have outer enclosures presented in the book questions the traditional view that every settlement has walled enclosures. Combining science with theory, it offers researchers of history a clear understanding of the development process of China's ancient capitals.

Care Management in Social and Primary Health Care David Challis, John Chesterman, Rosemary Luckett, Karen Stewart, 2018-10-24 This title was first published in 2003. This book provides an evaluation of the Gateshead Community Care Scheme, which was devised as an alternative to residential and hospital care for frail elderly people. An important feature of the scheme was the decentralization of control of resources to individual social workers acting as care managers with defined caseloads and expenditure limits to ensure accountability. The initial social care scheme was subsequently extended to provide both health and social care to clients from a large general practice based in a health centre. The social care team was enlarged to include a nurse care manager and part-time doctor and physiotherapist. The study examines the operation of care management in both settings, the use of devolved budgets, and services developed. The outcomes for clients and carers and the costs of care are examined. Admissions to residential care were reduced, and the elderly people who received the scheme's support experienced a better quality of care and greater well-being when compared with elderly people receiving the usual range of services. This was achieved at no greater cost. The characteristics of those for whom the scheme was most appropriate are described. In addition, the pattern of development of the scheme as it was incorporated into the mainstream of the Social Services and after the implementation of the NHS and Community Care Act are examined. Finally, the implications for the development of care management are considered.

A Theory and History of Rural-urban Governance in China Chao Ye, 2021-05-21 This book divides the history of China's rural-urban relations into three stages: antagonism, integration, and re-antagonism, and demonstrates that the two coupled variables, i.e., policy/culture and coast/trade, are the most crucial to urbanization and rural-urban governance in China from ancient times till now. From the perspective of a combination of history and geography, this book puts forward a new theory which is mainly based on Adam Smith's theory and other theories about rural-urban relationship and reinterprets the process and driving forces of evolutionary history of rural urban relationship over 5 000 years in China It is useful for researchers and scholars specialized in such fields as rural and urban studies economics geography management and planning for reference
