www.lisaaromano.com

When you experience abuse you are forced to separate from your inner world. When the inner world is too scary, the mind will find ways to deny, avoid and compartmentalize traumatic experiences.

As we heal, we learn to:

Look within.

Search for our light.

Listen for our light.

Hear our light.

Feel our light.

Embrace our light.

Return to our light.

Anchor to our light.

Merge with our light.

Love our light.

Walk with our light.

We learn to accept the darkness within is there but it is not because we are ill or defective.

Trauma is what happened to us.

Darkness, pain and sadness are the effects.

We are not the cause.

Compassion for what happened to us helps us heal what the mind has tried to protect us from.

Absolute Guide To Healing Trauma For Beginners And Novices Mary Ryan, 2021-08-07 Trauma is a distressing event or experience that involves a person's ability to cope and function. It can result in mental health problems and physical harm. Many will experience mild to moderate trauma, such as the unexpected death of a loved one or a natural disaster. However, not all people will develop a stress disorder like PTSD. Although someone might not develop PTSD, they may still experience symptoms of PTSD like memory problems immediately after a traumatic event. Many of these memory problems are common reactions to trauma.
