The Human Face Mary

Katsikitis,2012-12-06 James W Pennebaker The University of Texas at Austin At first glance a scientific book on the face doesn't make a great deal of sense After all the face is not a biological unit that falls into a specific medical specialty By the same token it is not part of a of a specific clear functional system that falls within the purview subdiscipline of psychology philosophy sociology or any other traditional area It seems that the only organizing principle of the face is that all humans have one and that it is central to the experience of being human As a social stimulus the face can signal emotions personality sex physical and mental health social status age and aspects of our thoughts intentions and our inner selves At various points in our lives we spend a tremendous amount of time and money for cosmetics cleansers medicines and occasionally surgery to enhance our face In the same way that a normative symmetrical face can attract praise and even adoration damage to the face through birth defects disease or injury is almost always stigmatizing Our faces then are social advertisements for who we are

The Eye and the Beholder Hannelore Hägele,2014-06-02 In The Eye and the Beholder the author singles out a topic already touched upon in her previous book Colour in Sculpture By raising the question of how significant the colouring of the eye is to figurative representations of the late medieval and early modern period Hannelore Hägele examines the different solutions open to the sculptor which vary depending on historical and cultural parameters The created eye must suit purpose and style She discusses a number of unusual aspects of this sculpted eyes in antiquity the art and craft of polychromy partial polychromy emotions and expressions the gaze and the glance from the sculpted eye to colour and the glass eye and what the eye cannot see Dr Hägele asks whether advances in optics and other sciences or theological concepts such as the eye of God and the inner eye determined the way in which eyes were perceived and represented It is the beholder whether as maker or viewer who engages with and judges the worth of any creative effort and what it contributes to an understanding of the seen and the unseen The illustrations and the many coloured plates accompanying the text offer an overview of the subject

Women in Antiquity Stephanie Lynn Budin,Jean Macintosh Turfa,2016-08-12 This volume gathers brand new essays from some of the most respected scholars of ancient history archaeology and physical anthropology to create an engaging overview of the lives of women in antiquity The book is divided into ten sections nine focusing on a particular area and also includes almost 200 images maps and charts The sections cover Mesopotamia Egypt Anatolia Cyprus the Levant the Aegean Italy and Western Europe and include many lesser known cultures such as the Celts Iberia Carthage the Black Sea region and Scandinavia Women's experiences are explored from ordinary daily life to religious ritual and practice to motherhood childbirth sex and building a career Forensic evidence is also treated for the actual bodies of ancient women Women in Antiquity is edited by two experts in the field and is an invaluable resource to students of the ancient world gender studies and women's roles throughout history
