Making Films in Contemporary Hollywood Alan Lovell,Gianluca Sergi,2005-02-25 Traditionally film critics have concentrated on the director seeing feature filmmaking as a form of individual expression The authors challenge this view arguing that filmmaking is a form of collective expression They examine the idea that many individuals including editors cinematographers and sound designers contribute to the making of a film and argue that it is misleading to classify them as technicians The authors consider is how money and power determines the structure within which all those involved with filmmaking work And in challenging the accepted view of the dynamics of filmmaking the book raises questions about the nature of the feature film Is it essentially a visual form What place does it have How important is the script Making Films in Contemporary Hollywood contains analysis interviews and case studies of Chinatown Jurassic Park and When Harry Met Sally bringing a fresh perspective to the study of filmmaking that will be both informative and provocative for Media and Film Studies students at all levels

American Film in the Digital Age Robert C. Sickels, 2010-12-08 This eclectic yet comprehensive analytical overview of the cataclysmic changes in the American film industry since 1990 shows how they have collectively resulted in a new era The Digital Age The American film industry has entered a new era American Film in the Digital Age traces the industrial changes since 1990 that have brought us to this point namely the rise of media conglomerates the proliferation of pornography through peripheral avenues of mainstream media the role of star actors and directors in distributing and publicizing their own pet projects the development of digital technology and the death of truly independent films Author Robert Sickels draws straight lines from the movies to music DVDs video games fast food digital on demand and more to demonstrate how all forms of media are merging into one He explores the irony that the success of independent films essentially killed independent cinema showing how it has become almost impossible to get a film released without the imprimatur of one of the big six media companies Fox Viacom TimeWarner Disney General Electric or CBS In the end using recent popular films as examples he explains not only how we got where we are but where we're likely headed as well

Politics and Politicians in American Film Phillip L. Gianos, 1998-01-26 Films have been a part of U S society for a century a source of great enjoyment for the audience and of great profit to filmmakers How does a mass entertainment medium deal with some of the great sources of dramatic real life political and economic conflict the Great Depression the Cold War in a way that attracts an audience without making it angry How does an industry which has from its beginnings been the subject of attacks from social political and religious groups deal with political issues and conflicts This book is an attempt to examine these questions it is also an examination of some of the greatest and most interesting American films ever made westerns gangster films comedies war films satires and film biographies to see what American films say about politics and politicians and what these films in turn say about the audience for which they were produced     American History and Contemporary Hollywood Film Trevor McCrisken, Andrew Pepper, 2005 Hollywood has a growing fascination with America's past. This book offers an analysis of how and why contemporary Hollywood films have sought to mediate American history. It considers whether or how far contemporary films have begun to unravel the unifying myths of earlier films and periods     Feminist Film Studies Karen Hollinger, 2012-08-21 Feminist Film Studies is a readable yet comprehensive textbook for introductory classes in feminist film theory and criticism. Karen Hollinger provides an accessible overview of women's representation and involvement in film complemented by analyses of key texts that illustrate major topics in the field. Key areas include a brief history of the development of feminist film theory, the theorization of the male gaze and the female spectator, women in genre films and literary adaptations, the female biopic, feminism and avant garde and documentary film, women as auteurs, lesbian representation, women in Third Cinema. Each chapter includes a 'Films in Focus' section which analyzes key texts related to the chapter's major topic, including examples from classical Hollywood, world cinema and the contemporary period. Interpretive essays provide an overview of some of the key issues and themes of the decade and provide background and context for the treatment of individual films and artists. In Mark Schilling's view Japanese film is presently in a period of creative ferment with a lively independent sector challenging the conventions of the industry mainstream. Younger filmmakers are rejecting the stale formulas that have long characterized major studio releases, reaching out to new influences from other media, television, comics, music videos and even computer games, and from both the West and other Asian cultures. In the process they are creating fresh and exciting films that range from the meditative to the manic, offering hope that Japanese film will not only survive but thrive as it enters the new millennium     The Persistence of Whiteness Daniel Bernardi, 2007-09-12 The Persistence of Whiteness investigates the representation and narration of race in contemporary Hollywood cinema. Ideologies of class, ethnicity, gender, nation and sexuality are central concerns, as are the growth of the business of filmmaking. Focusing on representations of Black, Asian, Jewish, Latina/o and Native Americans, identities, this collection also shows how whiteness is a fact everywhere in contemporary Hollywood cinema, crossing audiences, authors, genres, studios and styles. Bringing together essays from respected film scholars, the collection covers a wide range of important films, including Guess Who's Coming to Dinner, The Color Purple, Star Wars and The Lord of the Rings. Essays also consider genres from the western to blaxploitation and new black cinema, provocative filmmakers such as Melvin Van Peebles and Steven Spielberg, and stars including Whoopi Goldberg and Jennifer Lopez. Daniel Bernardi provides an in-depth introduction, comprehensive bibliography and a helpful glossary of terms, thus providing students with an derided seeing them as offering a new understanding of genre filmmaking That is like many other contemporary films but in a striking proportion within the smaller set of mainstream movies by women this body of work revels in a heightened genre status that allows its authors to simultaneously address intellectual cinephilic pleasures and bodily emotive ones Arguing through close analysis that these films demonstrate the inseparability of such strategies of engagement in contemporary genre cinema Heightened Genre reclaims women's mainstream filmmaking for feminism through a recalibration of genre theory itself      The Cinema of Steven Soderbergh Andrew deWaard,R. Colin Tait,2013-04-30 La 4e de couv indique The
