Making Indigenous Citizens:

Making Indigenous Citizens Maria Elena García, 2022 Set against conventional views of Peru as a place where indigenous mobilization has been absent this book examines the complex contentious politics between intercultural activists local Andean indigenous community members state officials non governmental organizations and transnationally educated indigenous intellectuals. It examines the paradoxes and possibilities of Quechua community protests against intercultural bilingual education official multicultural policies implemented by state and non state actors and the training of authentic indigenous leaders far from their home communities. Focusing on important local sites of transnational connections especially in the highland communities of Cuzco and on an international academic institute for the study of intercultural bilingual education this book shows how contemporary indigenous politics are inextricably and simultaneously local and global. In exploring some of the seeming contradictions of Peruvian indigenous politics Making Indigenous Citizens suggests that indigenous movements and citizenship are articulated in extraordinary but under explored ways in Latin America and beyond.

Making Citizenship Work Rodolfo Rosales, 2022-08-24 Making Citizenship Work seeks to address questions of how a community reaches a place where it can actually make citizenship work. A second question addressed is What does citizenship represent to different communities. Across thirteen chapters a collection of experts traverse multiple disciplines in analyzing citizenship from different points of access. Each chapter revolves around the premise that empowerment of communities and individuals within the community comes in different forms and is governed by multiple needs and visions. Authors utilize case studies to demonstrate the different roles that communities from a broad sector of our society adopt to accomplish constructing democratic processes that reflect their goals needs and cultures. Concurrently authors address the structural obstacles to the empowerment of communities arguing that the democratic process does not and cannot accommodate the diverse communities of society within a single universalistic model of citizenship. They conclude that fundamentally citizenship is not simply a legal right an obligation a state of rights but a practice an action on the behalf of community. Making Citizenship Work challenges conventional thinking about politics while also encouraging readers to go beyond the box that deters us from visualizing a human society. It is an ideal book for undergraduate and graduate courses in political science sociology history social work and Ethnic Studies. Making a Place for the Future in Maya Guatemala John P. Hawkins, Walter Randolph Adams, 2024-10-15 In 1998 Hurricane Mitch pounded the isolated village of Santa Catarina Ixtahuacán in mountainous western Guatemala destroying many homes. The experience traumatized many Ixtahuquenses. Much of the community relocated to be safer and closer to transportation that they hoped would help them to improve their lives acquire more schooling and find supportive jobs. This study followed the two resulting communities over the next quarter century as they reconceived and renegotiated their place in Guatemalan society and the world. Making a Place for the Future in Maya Guatemala shows how humans continuously evaluate and rework the efficacy of their cultural heritage. This process helps explain the inevitability and speed of culture change in the face of natural disasters and our ongoing climate crisis Routledge Handbook of Global Citizenship Studies Engin Isin, Peter Nyers, 2014-06-27 Citizenship studies is at a crucial moment of globalizing as a field. What used to be mainly a European North American and Australian field has now expanded to major contributions featuring scholarship from Latin America, Asia, Africa and the Middle East. The Routledge Handbook of Global Citizenship Studies takes into account this globalizing moment. At the same time it considers how the global perspective exposes the strains and discords in the concept of citizenship as it is understood today. With over fifty contributions from international interdisciplinary experts the Handbook features state of the art analyses of the practices and enactments of citizenship across broad continental regions: Africa, Americas, Asia, and Europe, as well as deterritorialized forms of citizenship: Diasporicity and Indigeneity. Through these analyses the Handbook provides a deeper understanding of citizenship in both empirical and theoretical terms. This volume sets a new agenda for scholarly investigations of citizenship. Its wide ranging contributions and clear accessible style make it essential reading for students and scholars working on citizenship issues across the humanities and social sciences

Environment and Citizenship in Latin America Alex Latta, Hannah Wittman, 2012-07-01 Scholarship related to environmental questions in Latin America has only recently begun to coalesce around citizenship as both an empirical site of inquiry and an analytical frame of reference. This has led to a series of new insights and perspectives but few efforts have been made to bring these various approaches into a sustained conversation across different social, temporal and geographic contexts. This volume is the result of a collaborative endeavour to advance debates on environmental citizenship while simultaneously and systematically addressing broader theoretical and methodological questions related to the particularities of studying environment and citizenship in Latin America. Providing a window onto leading scholarship in the field the book also sets an ambitious agenda to spark further research

The Oxford Handbook of Citizenship Ayelet Shachar, Rainer Bauböck, Irene Bloemraad, Maarten Peter Vink, 2017 This Handbook sets a new agenda for theoretical and practical explorations of citizenship analysing the main challenges and prospects informing today's world of increased migration and globalization. It will also explore new forms of membership and democratic participation beyond borders and the rise of European and multilevel citizenship

Highland Indians and the State in Modern Ecuador A. Kim Clark, Marc Becker, 2007-08-26 Highland Indians and the State in Modern Ecuador chronicles the changing forms of indigenous engagement with the Ecuadorian state since the early nineteenth century that by the beginning of the twenty first century had facilitated the growth of the strongest unified indigenous movement in Latin America. Built around nine case studies from nineteenth and twentieth century Ecuador Highland Indians and the State in Modern Ecuador presents state formation as an uneven process characterized by tensions and contradictions in which Indians and other subalterns actively participated. It examines how indigenous peoples have attempted sometimes successfully to claim control over state formation in order to improve their relative position in society. The book concludes with four comparative essays that place indigenous organizational strategies in highland Ecuador within a larger Latin American historical context Highland Indians and the State in Modern Ecuador offers an interdisciplinary approach to the study of state formation that will be of interest to a broad range of scholars who study how subordinate groups participate in and contest state formation

CJLACS ,2006 Contesting Canadian Citizenship Dorothy Chunn,Robert Menzies,Robert Adamoski,2002-08 Over the past 15 years the citizenship debate in political and social theory has undergone an extraordinary renaissance To date much of the writing on citizenship within and beyond Canada has been oriented toward the development of theory or has concentrated on contemporary issues and examples This collection of essays adopts a different approach by contextualizing and historicizing the citizenship debate through studies of various aspects of the rise of social citizenship in Canada Focusing on the formative years from the late 19th through mid 20th century contributors examine how emerging discourse and practices in diverse areas of Canadian social life created a widely engaged but often deeply contested vision of the new Canadian citizen The original essays examine key developments in the fields of welfare justice health childhood family immigration education labour media popular culture and recreation highlighting the contradictory nature of Canadian citizenship The implications of these projects for the daily lives of Canadians their identities and the forms of resistance that they mounted are central themes Contributing authors situate their historical accounts in both public and private domains their analyses emphasizing the mutual permeability of state and civilian life These diverse investigations reveal that while Canadian citizenship conveys crucial images of identity security and participatory democracy within the ongoing project of nation building it is also interlaced with the projects of a hierarchical social structure and exclusionary political order This collection explores the origins and evolution of Canadian citizenship in historical context It also introduces the more general dilemmas and debates in social history and political theory that inevitably inform these inquiries

From Prohibited Immigrants to Citizens Jonathan Klaaren,2017 Jonathan Klaaren blends legal and social history in this engaging account of early conceptions of South African citizenship He argues that distinctively South African notions of citizenship and nationality come out of the period 1897 to 1937 through legislation and official practices employing the key concept of prohibited immigrant and seeking to regulate the mobility of three population groups African Asian and European Further he makes the case that the regulation and administration of immigrants from the Indian sub continent in particular provided the basis for the vision and eventual reality of a unified although structurally unequal South African population This book fits into the growing field of Mobility Studies which seeks to understand and document the migration of people both within and across national borders while exploring the origins of those borders In addition to nationality and citizenship it touches on African pass laws the origins of the Public Protector the scheme importing Chinese labour to the gold mines the development of internal bureaucratic legality and India South Africa intra imperial relations With its attention to the role of law in state building and its understanding of the central place of implementation and administrative law in migration policy this book offers a distinctive focus on the relationship between migration and citizenship Shifting Imaginaries of 'good Citizens' Judy Meltzer,2013 Customizing Indigeneity Shane Greene,2009-05-28 Customizing Indigeneity follows the Aguaruna on their paths to becoming leaders of Peru's Amazonian movement revealing both their creative cultural agency and the constraints of contemporary indigenous movement politics along the way Beyond Neoliberalism in Latin America? John Burdick,Philip Oxhorn,Kenneth M. Roberts,2009 While the neoliberal model continues to dominate economic and political life in Latin America people throughout the region have begun to strategize about how to move beyond this model What are the alternatives they imagine Do these alternatives represent a genuine break Twelve cutting edge papers investigate how Latin Americans are struggling to articulate a future in which neoliberalism is reconfigured Harvard Blackletter Law Journal ,1999 Advancing Your Citizenship Philip L. Browning,Cindy Rhoades,Anita Crosson,1980 Approximately 1000 books reports and journal articles relating to the advocacy consumer movement for disabled people Also includes literature addressing the civil rights and business marketing social movements Each entry gives bibliographical information and annotation Author subject indexes Latin American Research Review ,2007 Citizen Participation in Library Decision-making John Marshall,1984 The unique experience of the Toronto Public Library 1974-1981 when reform politics at the municipal level initiated major changes in the library system Newly appointed Board members enlisted the aid of citizens in identifying unmet needs and exposing basic inequities in the provision of library service Participation grew dramatically as citizens became involved at area and neighborhood levels The result a major turn around in the library's priorities This book analyzes the experience from the points of view of 15 participants and close observers of the process academics politicians library workers and citizens of diverse backgrounds approaches and concerns Treaty Australian Institute of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Studies,2003 This lively collection of essays from the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Commission's treaty think tank and authors commissioned by the Australian Institute of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Studies was written to stimulate discussion and debate about a treaty The publication reflects the complexity of the issues needing to be resolved on the road to a treaty and emanates from a reconciliation convention attended by Aboriginal leaders in Melbourne in May 2000 In the past three years promotional material has been widely distributed workshops held and public lectures and forums convened The campaign is ongoing and governments industry schools universities and others have had the chance to engage and contribute Subjects covered include sovereignty constitutional law relevance of a treaty in the Torres Strait perspectives from Indigenous youth and concepts of citizenry and identity Cultural Diversity and the Law Marie-Claire Foblets,Jean-François Gaudreault-DesBiens,Alison Dundes Renteln,2010 Crafting Mexico Rick A. López,2010-09-09 After Mexico's revolution of 1910-1920 intellectuals sought to forge a unified cultural nation out of the country's diverse populace Their efforts resulted in an ethnicized interpretation of Mexicanness that intentionally incorporated elements of folk and indigenous culture In this rich history Rick A. López explains how thinkers and artists including the anthropologist Manuel Gamio the composer Carlos Ch vez the educator Mois s S enz the painter Diego Rivera and many less known figures formulated and promoted a notion of nationhood in which previously denigrated vernacular arts dance music and handicrafts such as textiles basketry ceramics wooden toys and ritual masks came to be seen as symbolic of Mexico s modernity and national distinctiveness L pez examines how the nationalist project intersected with transnational intellectual and artistic currents as well as how it was adapted in rural communities He provides an in depth account of artisanal practices in the village of Olinal located in the mountainous southern state of Guerrero Since the 1920s Olinal has been renowned for its lacquered boxes and gourds which have been considered to be among the most Mexican of the nation s arts Crafting Mexico illuminates the role of cultural politics and visual production in Mexico s transformation from a regionally and culturally fragmented country into a modern nation state with an inclusive and compelling national identity
