Making Of A Jew:

The Making of a Jew Edgar M. Bronfman, 1996 Here is an illuminating memoir of the evolution of a Jewish consciousness from one of the world's most prominent Jewish leaders. In an anecdote filled narrative etched with telling portraits of such figures as Gorbachev, Thatcher, Meir, Kohl, Khrushchev, Begin, and Bush, Bronfman takes us inside a life filled with events. Bronfman has been president of the World Jewish Congress since 1981. The Making of the Modern Jew Milton Steinberg, 1934 Gift of Rabbi W. Gunther Plaut. An Introduction to Modern Jewish Philosophy Norbert Max Samuelson, 1989-01-01 The book is divided into three sections. The first provides a general historical overview for the Jewish thought that follows. The second summarizes the variety of basic kinds of popular positive Jewish commitment in the twentieth century. The third and major section summarizes the basic thought of those modern Jewish philosophers whose thought is technically the best and/or the most influential in Jewish intellectual circles. The Jewish philosophers covered include Spinoza, Mendelssohn, Hermann Cohen, Martin Buber, Franz Rosenzweig, Mordecai Kaplan, and Emil Fackenheim. The text includes summaries and a selected bibliography of primary and secondary sources. Beyond Jewish Identity Jon A. Levisohn, Ari Y. Kelman, 2019-12-31 There is something deeply problematic about the ways that Jews, particularly in America, talk about Jewish identity as a desired outcome of Jewish education. For many, the idea that the purpose of Jewish education is to strengthen Jewish identity is so obvious that it hardly seems worth disputing, and the only important question is which kinds of Jewish education do that work more effectively or more efficiently. But what does it mean to strengthen Jewish identity? Why do Jewish educators, policy makers, and philanthropists talk that way? What do they assume about Jewish education or about Jewish identity when they use formulations like "strengthen Jewish identity"? And what are the costs of doing so? This volume, the first collection to examine critically the relationship between Jewish education and Jewish identity, makes two important interventions. First, it offers a critical assessment of the relationship between education and identity, arguing that the reification of identity has hampered much educational creativity in the pursuit of this goal and that the nearly ubiquitous employment of the term obscures significant questions about what Jewish education is and ought to be. Second, this volume offers thoughtful responses that are not merely synonymous replacements for identity, suggesting new possibilities for how to think about the purposes and desired outcomes of Jewish education, potentially contributing to any number of new conversations about the relationship between Jewish education and Jewish life. The Jew's Harp Leonard Fox, 1988 This collection represents the first complete study of the Jew's harp, its history, use, playing techniques, and manufacture, richly supplemented with biographies of virtuosi of the instrument, a geo-linguistic survey of terms, data on composed music, and a bibliographical and discographical essay with numerous musical examples. Protestants with whom they interacted regularly She also examines the nature of Jewish interactions with enslaved and free people of African descent in the colony Jews admitted both groups into their community and Ben Ur illuminates the ways in which these converts and their descendants experienced Jewishness and autonomy Lastly she compares the Jewish settlement with other frontier communities in Suriname most notably those of Indians and Maroons to measure the success of their negotiations with the government for communal autonomy The Jewish experience in Suriname was marked by unparalleled autonomy that nevertheless developed in one of the largest slave colonies in the New World The Real Jew Chaim Newman,1925
