How Power Shapes Energy Transitions in Southeast Asia Jens Marquardt,2016-12-01 An understanding of the role of energy related governance systems and the conditions required for a shift towards renewables in developing countries is urgently needed in order to tap into the global potential of low carbon development Although renewable energy sources have become technically feasible and economically viable social and political factors continue to persist as the most critical obstacles for their dissemination How Power Shapes Energy Transitions in Southeast Asia conceptualizes power for the field of sustainable energy governance Based on empirical findings from the Philippines and Indonesia the book develops an analytical approach that incorporates power theory into a multi level governance framework The book begins with a profound background on renewable energy development around the world and presents major trends in development cooperation A power based multi level governance approach is introduced that is rooted in development thinking Examining how coordination and power relations shape the development and dissemination of renewable energy technologies the book also shows how decentralization affects low carbon development in emerging economies Sparking debate on the ways in which energy transitions can be triggered and sustained in developing countries this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of renewable energy development and environmental politics and governance as well as practitioners in development cooperation      Politics of European Union Regional Policy Ian Bache,1998-12-01 This book provides an over view of the key developments in the politics of European Union regional policy from the creation of the EEC to the present day The discussion of who decides what and to what effect in relation to regional policy is part of the contemporary academic debate about the nature of politics and policy making in the EU Bache argues that no single theory can explain the complex politics of EU regional policy making In particular current theories pay insufficient attention to the importance of implementation in shaping policy outcomes The book concludes that the application of different analytical tools at different stages of policy making provides the fullest picture of the politics of EU regional policy This title is published in conjunction with UACES the University Association for Contemporary European Studies UACES web site can be found at www.uaces.org
