Meet Cree:

Meet Cree Hans Christoph Wolfart (Anthropologe, Linguist, Deutschland, Kanada), Janet F. Carroll, 1973 Meet Cree H. Christoph Wolfart, Janet F. Carroll, 1981 Meet Cree H. Christoph Wolfart, 1981 Since the Time of the Transformers Alan D. McMillan, 2000-02-01 This book examines over 4000 years of culture history of the related Nuuchah-nulth, Ditidaht and Makah peoples on western Vancouver Island and the Olympic Peninsula. Using data from the Toquaht Archaeological Project, McMillan challenges current ethnographic interpretations that show little or no change in these peoples' culture. Instead, by combining historical evidence, recent archaeological data and oral traditions, he demonstrates conclusively that there were in fact extensive cultural changes and restructuring in these societies in the century following contact with Europeans. McMillan brings the reader up to modern times, identifying the major issues that face the Nuuchah-nulth, Ditidaht and Makah communities today. The Subarctic Fur Trade Shepard Krech III, 2011-11-01 Originally presented at the American Society for Ethnohistory conference in 1981, the papers in this book focus on themes which have been near the centre of fur trade scholarship: the identification of Indian motivations, the degree to which Indians were discriminating consumers and creative participants, and the extent of Native dependency on the trade. It spans the period from the seventeenth century up to and including the twentieth century. In one of the key essays, Arthur J. Ray questions the theory that modern Native welfare societies are of recent origin and traces their roots to the early fur trade. In developing his thesis, his concerns about resource depletions and other ecological changes, the advent of new mercantilistic impulses and the development of dependence also emerge as sources of inquiry. By the other authors, papers by Charles A. Bishop, Toby Morantz and Carol M. Judd focus on the North Algonquians in the eastern subarctic and earlier centuries of the trade, while two final essays by Shepard Krech and Robert Jarvenpa and Hetty Jo Brumbach shift the focus to the North Athapascans in the western subarctic. The Subarctic Fur Trade will help scholars become more fully aware of the issues concerned with Native economic history, which are of common interest to scholars from many different disciplines. It also illustrates the methods that are increasingly being used to arrive at empirically based answers to questions and which will, when further refined, lead to greater advances in fur trade scholarship. That's Raven Talk Mareike Neuhaus, 2011 Annotation: A reading strategy for orality in North American Indigenous literatures that is grounded in Indigenous linguistic traditions. Stories of the House People Freda Ahenakew, 1987-01-01 Ten Stories of the House People, plains Cree from north of the North Saskatchewan River, told by Peter Vandall and Joe Douquette to Freda Ahenakew. In Cree with English translations, Cree-English and English-Cree glossaries and an outline of the writing system. The term wiskahikaniyiniwak (House People) was traditionally used for the Plains Cree groups clustering around Carlton House. The Literary History of Alberta Volume One George Melnyk, 1998-04 Alberta's contradictory landscape has fired the imaginative energies of writers for centuries. The sweep of the plains, the thrust of the Rockies and the long roll of the woodlands have left vivid impressions on all of Alberta's writers.

both those who passed through Alberta in search of other horizons and those who made it their home The Literary History of Alberta surveys writing in and about Alberta from prehistory to the middle of the twentieth century It includes profiles of dozens of writers from the earnestly intended to the truly gifted and their texts from the commercial to the arcane It reminds us of long forgotten names and faces figures who quietly or not so quietly wrote the books that underpin Alberta s thriving literary culture today Melnyk also discusses the institutions that have shaped Alberta s literary culture The Literary History of Alberta is an essential text for any reader interested in the cultural history of western Canada and a landmark achievement in Alberta s continuing literary history
