

The Meech Lake Accord

1987 (Brian Mulroney, Prime Minister)

- Meech Lake was an effort to complete the constitutional process and meet some of Quebec's demands. It included
 1. The confirmation of "distinct society" status for Quebec in order to bring the province into the constitution.
 2. The right to allow provinces to nominate Supreme Court judges.
- The accord was not ratified by all ten provinces and failed.

Peter Meekison, Hamish Telford, Harvey Lazar, 2004 Beginning with an examination of the role of traditional institutions such as Parliament Cabinet the Supreme Court and political parties Canada State of the Federation 2002 affirms the long held belief that these bodies do not provide effective forums for interregional bargaining creating a void that has been filled at least in part by executive federalism Contributors conclude that the performance of traditional institutions taken as a whole has deteriorated over the last several decades placing more pressure on the processes of executive federalism Political Culture and Constitutionalism Daniel P. Franklin, Michael J. Baun, 1995 This work is a cross national examination of the relationship between political culture and constitutionalism The countries studied include Nigeria Turkey and Japan Questions explored include whether constitutions must evolve and whether constitutionalism is only a western concept Opting in Bryan Schwartz, 1992 Still Thinking Bryan Schwartz, 1992 Options for a New Canada Queen's University (Kingston, Ont.). Institute of Intergovernmental Relations, Business Council on National Issues, 1991 The authors of 17 contributions present a wide range of proposals for both the future constitutional structure of Canada and the processes required to achieve agreement on that structure They all agree that Canada faces a profound crisis and that significant change to the current Canadian federation is inevitable No index Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Saskatchewan Law Review, 1998 Comparative Politics Gregory S.
