Love in Twelfth-Century France John C. Moore, 2016-11-11 Great is the force of love wondrous is its strength Many are the degrees of love and who can worthily distinguish among them cried the twelfth century cleric Richard of St Victor What relationships human and divine are appropriate to this protean creature man with his great gifts and imperative appetites The different answers given this question by the monks and scholars the courtly poets and bawdy ballad writers of medieval France form the substance of this graceful and perceptive book written for student and general reader alike And while the conventions of love among twelfth century Frenchmen differ from our own their efforts to comprehend its true meaning and nature have a very contemporary relevance France in the twelfth century was a bustling country of expanding economic and social horizons with a thirst for knowledge that stimulated far ranging intellectual inquiry The great classical writers the Greek and Roman Fathers of the early Church the Old and New Testaments such were the sources upon which French scholars drew For the great monastic writers love was a spiritual value achieved through unending effort and discipline The poets of the courts on the other hand celebrated erotic love in a setting of elaborate romance Only the scholars of the new urban universities sought to integrate love into a coherent explanation of man and the universe The writings of all these Abelard and Bernard of Clairvaux William of Poitiers and Andreas Capellanus have in one way or another greatly enriched our Western traditions Drawing upon a wealth of original sources and an abundant scholarly literature John C Moore has provided in his own words a pleasant meeting place for twelfth century men and women and for modern readers who share a common humanity and a common interest in love

Romantic love as we know it today was invented in the Middle Ages Many ideas about love and the focus on the female as the object and the male as the subject of desire were developed by the poets and artists of the twelfth century onwards Using a sumptuous array of well known and less familiar images from the thirteenth century to the fifteenth this book shows how images in paintings and on beautiful objects taught men and women about the art of love The textiles ivories illuminations chests and jewels help reveal medieval life at its most profound moments Given as gifts and love tokens these objects were
