Myths and New World Explorations Gordon Speck, 1979-01-01    New World Myth Marie Vautier, 1998 In this comparative study of six Canadian novels Marie Vautier examines reworkings of myth in the postcolonial context. While myths are frequently used in literature as transhistorical master narratives, she argues that these novels destabilize the traditional function of myth in their self-conscious reexamination of historical events from a postcolonial perspective. Through detailed readings of François Barcelo's La Tribu, George Bowering's Burning Water, Jacques Godbout's Les Têtes Papineau, Joy Kogawa's Obasan, Jovette Marchessault's Comme une enfant de la terre, and Rudy Wiebe's The Scorched Wood, Vautier situates New World myth within the broader contexts of political history and of classical biblical and historical myths.    The

The collection reflects the truly multi-disciplinary nature of monster studies, bringing in scholars from literature, art history, religious studies, history, classics and cultural and media studies. The companion offers scholars and graduate students the first comprehensive and authoritative review of this emergent field.    "The" Jesuit-Relations and Allied Documents: Travels and Explorations of the Jesuit Missionaries in New France 1610-1791 Reuben Gold Thwaites, 1898    French Exploration and Settlements in North America, and Those of the Portuguese, Dutch, and Swedes, 1500-1700 Justin Winsor, 1884    The New World, 1899

Viewing the Ancestors Robert S. McPherson, 2014-03-17 The Anasazi people left behind marvelous structures, the ruins of which are preserved at Mesa Verde, Chaco Canyon, and Canyon de Chelly. But what do we know about these people and how do they relate to Native nations living in the Southwest today? Archaeologists have long studied the American Southwest, but as historian Robert McPherson shows in Viewing the Ancestors, their findings may not tell the whole story. McPherson maintains that combining archaeology with knowledge derived from the oral traditions of the Navajo, Ute, Paiute, and Hopi peoples yields a more complete history McPherson's approach to oral tradition reveals evidence that contrary to the archaeological consensus that these groups did not coexist the Navajos interacted with their Anasazi neighbors. In addition to examining archaeological literature McPherson has studied traditional teachings and interviewed Native people to obtain accounts of their history and of the relations between the Anasazi and Athapaskan ancestors of today's Hopi Pueblo and Navajo peoples. Oral history McPherson points out tells why things happened. For example archaeological findings indicate that the Hopi are descended from the Anasazi but Hopi oral tradition better explains why the ancient Puebloans may have left the Four Corners region the drought that may have driven the Anasazi away was a symptom of what had gone wrong within the society a point that few archaeologists could derive from what is found in the ground. An important text for non-Native scholars as well as Native people committed to retaining traditional knowledge Viewing the Ancestors exemplifies collaboration between the sciences and oral traditions rather than a contest between the two Monthly Bulletin, 1879

Heaslip, 2025-08-15 Mythologists work as cultural animateurs tracking patterns and trends identifying archetypal and symbolic wounds and remedies. Reading cultural and environmental events via texts and patterns from such a perspective enables dynamic dialogue and action. Regenerating the Feminine Psyche Culture and Nature examines the history of the lost and degraded archetypal feminine of Western cultures whose resurgence in scholarship the arts and social justice practices is now on the rise. Drawing on various methodologies to deepen our understanding of this regenerative phenomenon author April C Heaslip charts the significance of interconnected expressions dramatically impacting our sense of self community history health culture and creativity. This study examines the feminine's resurgence via emerging imaginal archetypal paradigms in literary fiction memoir and cinematic expression. Utilizing literary and film studies depth psychology archaeomythology history and religious studies to examine the cultural and personal phenomenon of feminine renewal this book explores how remythologizing regeneration as well as remapping complex and neglected personal and collective wasteland landscapes revitalizes the relationship between psyche culture and nature. Tending to the return of the feminine and the complex cultural and eco wastelands this post Jungian inquiry remythologizes notions of wholeness amplifies feminist revisions of Joseph Campbell's hero's journey and provides transdisciplinary best practices in support of personal
