Transition and Justice Gerhard Anders, Olaf Zenker, 2014-12-23 Transition and Justice examines a series of cases from across the African continent where peaceful new beginnings were declared after periods of violence and where transitional justice institutions helped define justice and the new socio political order Offers a new perspective on transition and justice in Africa transcending the institutional limits of transitional justice Covers a wide range of situations and presents a broad range of sites where past injustices are addressed Examines cases where peaceful new beginnings have been declared after periods of violence Addresses fundamental questions about transitions and justice in societies characterized by a high degree of external involvement and internal fragmentation

The Politics of Bodies at Risk Maria Boikova Struble, 2019-03-13 An understanding of International Relations exclusively as a sphere plagued by countless known and unknown risks looming disasters and imminent threats leaves an important aspect of the study of politics unengaged that of the human herself The Politics of Bodies at Risk re engages and re conceptualizes politics from the point of view of the everyday experiences of human materiality living with risk across geopolitical worlds and state borders Re imagining human bodies as productive singular and embodied materiality removes them from an understanding of life in an age of terror as pejorative dispensable and burdensome enabling a novel understanding of politics as an embodiment of human bodies with risk and not as a sphere of activity aimed primarily at managing silencing and normalizing the risky other Drawing on case studies from several countries and across several disciplines The Politics of Bodies at Risk investigates the possibility of developing an understanding of the productive possibilities contained in engaging with the human body as a site of a radical interconnectedness between politics singularity risk and security

The Ethics of a Potential Urbanism Camillo Boano, 2016-11-25 The Ethics of a Potential Urbanism explores the possible and potential relevance of Giorgio Agamben's political thoughts and writings for the theory and the practice of architecture and urban design It sketches out the potentiality of Agamben's politics which can affect change in current architectural and design discourses The book investigates the possibility of an inoperative architecture as an ethical shift for a different practice just a little bit different but able to deactivate the sociospatial dispositive and mobilize a new theory and a new project for the urban now to come This particular reading from Agamben's oeuvre suggests a destituent mode of both thinking and practicing of architecture and urbanism that could possibly redeem them from their social emptiness cultural irrelevance economic reductionism and proto avant garde extravagance contributing to a renewed critical encounter with architecture's aesthetic political function

Performance, Space, Utopia S. Jestrovic, 2012-11-13 Over 20 years after the war in Yugoslavia this book looks back at its two most iconic cities and the phenomenon of exile emerging as a consequence of living in them in the 1990s It uses examples ranging from street interventions to theatre performances to explore the making of urban counter sites through theatricality and utopian performatives addresses the apparent dislocation of the church and theology from the socio cultural mainstream and attempts to recover its counterpolitical voice It argues that early in ecclesiastical history the tradition s founding and constituent principles were betrayed by a complicity with the prevailing politics of sovereignty that has continued to this day Following the contours of contemporary theologians who explain the dislocation in terms of a fall in early modernity an initial subsumption of transcendence by sovereignty is proposed The genealogy of this fall is then explored in four historical studies focusing on the theopolitical transformations of law violence and appeasement from their beginnings in the writings of Eusebius of Caesarea to their culmination in the commodification of life itself The trajectory is traced through seminal soteriological developments such as the crusade theology of Pope Innocent III the inversion of the corpus verum and the corpus mysticum and the conjunction of sovereignty and capital in the mysterious currency of the Bank of England The narrative culminates in the seemingly paradoxical concurrence of the politics of biopower and the so called century of the Holy Spirit Drawing on a radical substratum intimated in the case studies the final section develops an innovative christological configuration of kenosis or what is termed kenarchy This provides a re imagining of the divine distinct from its implication with imperial sovereignty which could allow theology to make a more effective contemporary political intervention Protesting

Citizenship: Migrant Activisms Imogen Tyler, 2017-07-05 What does it mean to state No One is Illegal This rallying call is what unifies migrant protests against exclusionary border regimes around the world bringing migrants citizens legal and illegal people onto the streets in ever greater numbers Indeed the last decade has witnessed an explosion of immigrant protests political mobilizations by irregular migrants and pro migrant activists This edited collection aims to contribute to the growing body of scholarship on migrant resistance movements and to consider the implications of these struggles for critical understandings of citizenship and borders It offers a rich series of theoretical and political interventions which together explore the tensions between integrationist and autonomous approaches and between migrant and activist strategies of invisibility and visibility By bringing immigrant protests to the heart of debates about citizenship it also extends discussions about the limits and the possibilities of citizenship as the material and conceptual horizon of critical social analysis political participation and democracy today This book was published as a special issue of Citizenship Studies Coronavirus, Psychoanalysis, and Philosophy Fernando Castrillón, Thomas Marchevsky, 2021-04-05 Originally published in the European Journal of Psychoanalysis EJP the essays in this volume are a set of responses to the coronavirus crisis by distinguished philosophers and psychoanalysts from around the globe The coronavirus irrupted making swift and deep cuts in the fabric of our existence the risks of contagion and indefinite periods of isolation have radically altered the functioning of society Pandemics do not wait for comprehension in order to proliferate Confusion sickness and death punctuate the failure of governments worldwide to respond This collection of writings examines the effects of the pandemic and the conditions that make possible such a global crisis The writers provoke us to consider how capitalism governmental power and biopolitics mold the contours of life and death The contributors in this collection ignite urgent political dialogue address emergent transformations in the social field and offer perspectives on shifts in subjectivity and psychoanalytic practice Beyond providing reflections on the impact of the coronavirus the authors point to determinants of how the crisis will unfold and what may be on the horizon This book will be invaluable to psychoanalysts psychotherapists philosophers and to all those interested in the implications of the virus for psychoanalytic practice and theory and the social cultural and political spheres of our world
