Narrating The Self:

Narrating the Self Tomi Suzuki, 1996 Narrating the Self examines the historical formation of modern Japanese literature through a fundamental reassessment of its most characteristic form the I novel an autobiographical narrative thought to recount the details of the writer's personal life thinly veiled as fiction. Closely analysing a range of texts from the late nineteenth century through to the present day the author argues that the I novel is not a given form of text that can be objectively identified but a historically constructed reading mode and cultural paradigm that not only regulated the production and reception of literary texts but also defined cultural identity and national tradition. Instead of emphasising as others have the thematic and formal elements of novels traditionally placed in this category she explores the historical formation of a field of discourse in which the I novel was retroactively created and defined.

Narration and Discourse in the Book of Genesis Hugh C. White, 1991 Narrating the Self Cathia Jenainati, University of Warwick, 2003 A Theory of Narrative F. K. Stanzel, 1986-03-13

The purpose of this book is to provide a clear and systematic account of the complexities of fictional narration which result from the shifting relationship in all storytelling between the story itself and the way it is told.

Multiperspectival Narration in Ian McEwan's "Atonement" Eva Maria Mauter, 2008-02 Seminar paper from the year 2004 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1.3 University of Paderborn course Ian McEwan 18 entries in the bibliography language English comment In this thesis Ansgar N nning's concept of multiperspectival narration is applied to Ian McEwan's Atonement in great detail. Hence the thesis is of interest to everybody who is concerned with perspective or multiperspectivity in narrations as well as students of Ian McEwan's work.

abstract In this thesis Ansgar N nning's concept of multiperspectival narration is applied to Ian McEwan's Atonement in great detail. Hence the thesis is of interest to everybody who is concerned with perspective or multiperspectivity in narrations as well as students of Ian McEwan's work.

In post modern english literature Ian McEwan has received considerable attention from critics and scholars and his writing is certainly most noteworthy. In his best selling novel Atonement McEwan employs a multitude of subjective perspectives which is not only a key element for suspense and understanding the plot but also an instrument of reception control. In order to gain access to the narrational strategies of the novel and for a deeper understanding of McEwan's perfect control of narratological and stylistic devices Ansgar and Vera N nning's concept to analyze multiperspectivity in narration is applied to Atonement. Although A and V N nning's concept augments modern narratology with an extraordinary instrument to analyze perspectivity it lacks application so far. Ian McEwan's Atonement provides an excellent field for exploring multiperspectivity. So this essay will use A and V N nning's categories in order to analyze the structure of perspectives and its controlling function in McEwan's Atonement. Therefore the general concept of A and V N nning concerning multiperspectivity is introduced at first. It is necessary to have a close look at form.

Antiquity and the Meanings of Time Duncan F. Kennedy, 2013-05-30 Society and contemporary culture seem forever fascinated by the topic of time In modern fiction Ian McEwan The Child in Time and Martin Amis Time's Arrow have led the way in exploring the human condition in relation to past present and future In cinema several cultural texts Memento Minority Report The Hours have similarly reflected a preoccupation with temporality and human experience And in the sphere of politics debates about the end of history prompted by Francis Fukuyama indicate that how we live is deeply determined by our relationship not only to place but also to the passing of time But what did the ancients think about time Is our interest in chronology a relatively recent phenomenon Or does it go further back In his major new work Duncan Kennedy indicates that our own fascination with time reckoning is by no means unique Discussing a number of key texts such as Homer's Odyssey Sophocles Oedipus Rex Virgil's Aeneid and Ovid's Metamorphoses and imaginatively setting these side by side with modern works such as Sterne's Tristram Shandy and Joyce's Ulysses he shows that from era to era and in different ways human beings have uniformly striven to understand the unfolding of history and their relationship to it

Annual Review of Anthropology, 1996 A Stranger's Journey David Mura, 2018-08 Long recognized as a master teacher at writing programs like VONA the Loft and the Stonecoast MFA with A Stranger's Journey David Mura has written a book on creative writing that addresses our increasingly diverse American literature Mura argues for a more inclusive and expansive definition of craft particularly in relationship to race even as he elucidates timeless rules of narrative construction in fiction and memoir His essays offer technique focused readings of writers such as James Baldwin ZZ Packer Maxine Hong Kingston Mary Karr and Garrett Hongo while making compelling connections to Mura's own life and work as a Japanese American writer In A Stranger's Journey Mura poses two central questions The first involves identity How is writing an exploration of who one is and one's place in the world Mura examines how the myriad identities in our changing contemporary canon have led to new challenges regarding both craft and pedagogy Here like Toni Morrison's Playing in the Dark or Jeff Chang's Who We Be A Stranger's Journey breaks new ground in our understanding of the relationship between the issues of race literature and culture The book's second central question involves structure How does one tell a story Mura provides clear insightful narrative tools that any writer may use taking in techniques from fiction screenplays playwriting and myth Through this process Mura candidly explores the newly evolved aesthetic principles of memoir and how questions of identity occupy a central place in contemporary memoir

And It's All There - Intertextual Structures, Themes, and Characters in Stephenie Meyer's Twilight Series Kathrin Fällner, 2011-12 Diploma Thesis from the year 2010 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1.3 Martin Luther University Institut für Anglistik und Amerikanistik language English abstract With the growth in popularity due to series like Anne Rice's The Vampire Chronicles and the motif's recurring presence in cinematic adaptations of Stoker's Dracula as well as various TV formats public interest has never ceased to the present day As the most significant characteristic of the vampire is its being multi faceted and changing its potential to be also of great intertextual value can be thereupon considered Consequently it can be assumed that Meyer's tetralogy clearly evokes these instances of intertextuality through the adoption of patterns and themes that have already proved productive in earlier literary works. However, in Meyer's work these sources are remarkably extended and sometimes even altered as she relies to a large part on her pretexts to tell her narrative and construct a postmodern vampire figure. In order to achieve a comprehensive analysis, it is necessary to incorporate all four volumes: Twilight, New Moon, Eclipse, and Breaking Dawn of the Twilight series in the discussion. Meyer's just recently published work The Short Second Life of Bree Tanner (An Eclipse Novella) will only engage a marginal part of the analysis as it largely concentrates on the subplot of Eclipse, hence not being particularly significant for the main events of the story. On the other hand, Meyer's Midnight Sun, although until the present day a yet unfinished and unpublished manuscript, is of great importance for the subsequent analysis. Meyer dwells on a number of themes, structures, and characters that have intertextual potential. One can distinguish between pretexts that are apparently marked in Meyer's work and sources that only bear non-literal intertextual references. Pretexts that are overtly marked and are thus explicitly intertextual in the Twilight series include:

- Narrating the self in the novels of Ramón Hernández (Craig Niel Bergeson, 1998)
- American Swineherd* (1924)
- Narrative and the Self* (Anthony Paul Kerby, 1991-11-22)

Examining the constitutive role of language and narration in key areas of human experience, Narrative and the Self articulates a view of the self as the implied subject of narrative utterances. Anthony Paul Kerby draws on the diverse insights of recent work in philosophy, literary theory, and psychology to synthesize a coherent and provocative view of narrative identity and selfhood. Invoking the writings of Benveniste, Ricoeur, Merleau-Ponty, Lacan, Taylor, and other theorists, he argues that language and narration play a central role in key aspects of human experience, such as emotion, values, recollection, and sense of history. Fundamental to Kerby's exposition is a defense of the quasi-narrative nature of our everyday experience. Kerby delineates a convincing narrative model of the self and offers a valuable overview of contemporary philosophical issues surrounding the place and role of narrative in human experience.

- Self-culture (James Freeman Clarke, 1881)
- Self Culture (1895)
- Self-exiled* (John Alexander Steuart, 1889)
