O'Neill,1982 Relevance of N-nitroso Compounds to Human Cancer H. Bartsch,National Cancer Institute (U.S.),International Agency for Research on Cancer,1987 This extensive volume offers 130 presentations that examine the relevance of N nitroso compounds to human cancer Significant advances are presented on the measurement of exposures to N nitroso compounds and on possible links with several common human cancers The contributions are from scientists in a wide range of disciplines and cover clinical and epidemiological studies tobacco betel quid carcinogenesis endogenous formation measurement of exposure metabolism reaction with cellular macromolecules molecular mechanisms and biological effects This is the ninth in a biennial series of symposia which is widely recognized to be the leading source in the field Mechanisms of DNA Damage and Repair Michael G. Simic,Lawrence Grossman,Arthur C. Upton,David S. Bergtold,2013-11-21 This book is based on the papers presented at the conference on Mechanisms of DNA Damage and Repair Implications for Carcinogenesis and Risk Assessment held at the National Bureau of Standards on June 27 1985 This volume deals with mechanisms of DNA damage and repair at the molecular level consequences of unrepaired or misrepaired damage with major emphasis on carcinogenesis drugs which bind selectively to altered and potentially damaging DNA sequences and potential utilization of DNA damage as an endpoint for assessing risks of UV light ionizing radiations chemicals drugs and hazardous agents in foods Because the induction of mutations by radiation and genotoxic chemicals has been observed to follow one hit kinetics in some instances it is generally assumed that any level of exposure to a DNA damaging agent may increase the risk of genetic disease or cancer in an exposed population At the same time however there is evidence that although the DNA of living cells is continually damaged by natural background radiation free radicals and other naturally occurring processes most of the damage is normally repaired Chemical Carcinogenesis Francisco Feo,Paolo Pani,2013-11-11 About two centuries after the communication by Sir Percival Pott that the chimney sweeper disease was a cancer and its suggestion that active compounds of soot were the causative agents and about one century after the description of urinary bladder cancer in dye workers an enormous number of substances have been synthesized and have probably come into contact with man Research in cancer prevention is of primary importance and may receive continuous support from new discoveries on cancer etiology and pathogenesis If one accepts the multistage model of chemical carcinogenesis one has also to accept that many events occur between the contact of carcinogenic compounds and their specific targets and the development of a clinically recognizable neoplasm Thus animal studies become essential to elucidate the different steps by which chemical carcinogens induce neoplasia The analysis of these steps and the comparative evaluation of experimental models is essential to an understanding of pathogenesis Environment Abstracts Annual ,1986 This database encompasses all aspects of the impact of people and technology on the environment and the effectiveness of remedial policies and technologies featuring more than 950 journals published in the U S and abroad The database also covers conference papers and proceedings special reports from international agencies non governmental organizations universities associations and private corporations Other materials selectively indexed include significant monographs government studies and newsletters N-Nitroso Compounds Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research,University of Alberta,Canadian Federal Government,1984 Nitrate

Contamination Istvan Bogardi,Robert D. Kuzelka,Wilma G. Ennenga,2013-06-29 The nitrate content of drinking water is rising at an alarming rate in several regions of NATO countries and elsewhere in the world The increase is due to lack of proper sewage treatment and primarily to excess fertilizer application Also eutrophication in several coastal areas is triggered by high nitrate concentrations The main purpose of this book is to integrate scientific knowledge related to exposure assessment health consequences and control of nitrate contamination in water The motivation is related to the magnitude the possible adverse health effects and the high cost of control ling nitrate contamination Future research tasks are defined by an interaction among hydro logists toxicologists and environmental engineers in an integrated framework for nitrate risk management The target readership of this book is a mix of university colleagues practitioners from both the private and public sectors and advanced graduate students working with the hydrological health science or environmental engineering aspects of nitrate contamination The main conclusions include 1 For risk assessment purposes knowledge and sufficiently accurate models are available to predict nitrate load and its fate in water under changes in land use 2 Once agricultural exposure controls are implemented the response times in ground water may be so long as to make controls unrealistic 3 It is still unknown whether agricultural best management practice is a compromise between nitrate risk reduction and agricultural revenue 4 The current drinking water guidelines of 10 mg L NOrN need not be changed
