Naga Awakens:

Southeast Asia Transformed Chia Lin Sien, 2003 Southeast Asia with a total population of 520 million remains a region characterized by fragmentation diversity and considerable internal conflict despite the unifying influence of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN formed some thirty five years ago In the new millennium it has lost the distinction of being one of the world s faster growing group of economies since the 1997 financial crisis While it has benefited from the winds of globalization it has now to cope with the painful adjustments to problems that stem from the inadequacies of good governance and structural changes This volume brings together the combined insights of specialists who have worked and lived in the region The theme of the book is change and transformation The authors identify the trends and forces that propel the region along and then bring in discussions on key issues In some cases they offer their views on the future of the region and recommendations for solutions The intention of the book is to offer a scholarly review of the region s development over the past half century and to provide a firm basis for forecasting its further evolution in the new millennium The Naga

Awakens Victor R. Savage, Lily Kong, R. J. Warwick Neville, 1998 Using the Southeast Asian regional landscape as its area of enquiry the book addresses a wide range of issues that countries in the region face as they move towards the 21st century in Developing Countries Peter Utting, 2002 If sustainable development is to become a reality then transnational corporations must take their environmental responsibilities seriously In the industrialised countries some positive steps have been taken The rhetoric of corporate environmental responsibility is also extending to developing countries but very little is known about the extent of concrete changes there in the environmental performance of big business This book explores what is happening in the developing world Three principal questions are focused upon To what extent is the greening of business a reality in the South If large corporations are pursuing their business interests in an environmentally responsible manner does this contribute significantly to sustainable development What combination of measures is likely to work in scaling up and deepening environmental good practice by companies in developing countries The original research contained in this volume spans a number of major sectors manufacturing oil extraction logging and bioprospecting Particular attention is paid to the experience of Brazil Costa Rica Malaysia Mexico Singapore and South Africa Corporate self regulation environmental reporting and voluntary codes of conduct are examined In addition there are detailed studies of the complementary approaches that are necessary including the regulatory measures and incentives which governments can put in place and the increasingly well publicised role which citizens movements and NGOs are playing in holding business to account for its environmental impact This pioneering set of studies not only provides a rich seam of hard data on the environmental record of big business in the South but even more importantly it examines the strengths and weaknesses of a wide range of environmental policies and contexts including the frequently contradictory pressures of the market place and public campaigns which impact on corporations in this critically important arena
