Masterworks of Children's Literature: 1837-1900, the Victorian Age Francelia Butler, Jonathan Cott, 1983

Masterworks of Children's Literature: 1837-1900, the Victorian age Jonathan Cott, 1983      Family Ties in Victorian England Claudia Nelson, 2007-02-28 The Victorians were passionate about family While Queen Victoria's supporters argued that her intense commitment to her private life made her the more fit to mother her people her critics charged that it distracted her from her public responsibilities Here Nelson focuses particularly on the conflicting and powerful images of family life that Victorians produced in their fiction and nonfiction that is on how the Victorians themselves conceived of family which continues both to influence and to help explain visions of family today Drawing upon a wide variety of 19th century fiction and nonfiction Nelson examines the English Victorian family both as it was imagined and as it was experienced For many Victorians family was exalted to the status of secular religion endowed with the power of fighting the contamination of unchecked commercialism or sexuality and holding out the promise of reforming humankind Although in practice this ideal might have proven unattainable the many detailed 19th century descriptions of the outlook and behavior appropriate to fathers and mothers sons and daughters and other family members illustrate the extent of the pressure felt by members of this society to try to live up to the expectations of their culture Defining family to include the extended family the foster or adoptive family and the stepfamily Nelson considers different roles within the Victorian household in order to gauge the ambivalence and the social anxieties surrounding them many of which continue to influence our notions of family today

Lewis Carroll Morton N. Cohen, 1996-11-26 Under the pen name Lewis Carroll Charles Lutwidge Dodgson became a legend for his children's books which broke the constraints of Victorian moralism Thirty years in the writing and drawn from a voluminous fund of letters and diaries this exemplary biography conveys both the imaginative fancy and human complexity of the creator of Alice in Wonderland Photos      Masterworks of Children's Literature: The Twentieth century Francelia Butler, 1986      Masterworks of Children's Literature Jonathan Cott, Francelia Butler, Robert Bator, Robert Lee Wolff, William T. Moynihan, Mary E. Shaner, 1986      The Family in English Children's Literature Ann Alston, 2008-06-03 From the trials of families experiencing divorce as in Anne Fine's Madame Doubtfire to the childcare problems highlighted in Jacqueline Wilson's Tracy Beaker it might seem that the traditional family and the ideals that accompany it have long vanished However in The Family in English Children's Literature Ann Alston argues that this is far from the case She suggests that despite the tales of family woe portrayed in children's literature the desire for the happy contented nuclear family remains inherent within the ideological subtexts of children's literature Using 1818 as a starting point Alston investigates families in children's literature at their most intimate focusing on how they share their spaces their ideals of home and even on what they eat for dinner What emerges from Alston's study are not so much the contrasts that exist between periods but rather the startling similarities of the ideology of family intrinsic to children's literature The Family in

English Children's Literature sheds light on who maintains control who behaves and how significant children's literature is in shaping our ideas about what makes a family good

Regendering the School Story Beverly Lyon Clark, 2004-08-02 In 18th through 20th century British and American literature school stories always play out the power relationships between adult and child They also play out gender relationships especially when females are excluded although most histories of the genre ignore the unusual novels that probe the gendering of school stories When the occasional man wrote about girls schools as Charles Lamb and H G Wells did he sometimes empowered his female characters granting them freedoms that he had experienced at school Women who wrote about boys schools often gave unusual emphasis to families and at times revealed the contradictions in the schoolyard code against telling tales or presented competing versions of masculinity such as the Christian gentleman versus the self made man Sometimes these middle class white women projected their sense of estrangement onto working class and minority women Sometimes they wrote school stories that were in dialog with other genres as when Mrs Henry Wood wrote a sensation story or like Louisa May Alcott they domesticated the boys school story giving prominence to a female viewpoint

Goodly is Our Heritage Rashna B. Singh, 2004 Patterns of sublimation begin in childhood So does binary and hierarchical thinking The child must be trained to see in oppositions and on a scale of order So the story of nation and people race and culture begins as the bedtime story The author How else asks Rashna Singh do we explain the uncanny physical resemblance between Osama bin Laden and the evil Jaffar of Disney's motion picture Aladdin Singh provides a most persuasive argument for why these sentiments are both insidious and compelling and how they resonate to this day While she includes such classic examples as The Secret Garden Robinson Crusoe and the Babar series it is her inclusion of genuinely neglected fictions that lends her analyses a special richness In an engaging narrative style Singh demonstrates how constructions of character evolve into cultural imprints which encourage their young readers to choose the goodly side with little thought of badly repercussions

Culture and Education in Victorian England Patrick Scott, Pauline Fletcher, 1990 The critics in Culture and Education in Victorian England share Matthew Arnold's belief that culture and education are powerful instruments for transmitting values but they do not always see that power as benign They show how art literature the British Museum and formal education could all be used to inculcate the values of the ruling classes Illustrated

Through the Northern Gate Jacqueline P. Banerjee, 1996 This study challenges critical orthodoxy by showing that childhood became a focus of interest in British fiction well before the Romantic period It also argues that children in the Victorian novel far from being sentimental figures are psychologically unique and contribute positively and significantly to the narrative discourse Contemporary ideology the novelists autobiographical and humanitarian impulses and gender issues are all examined as factors in this development Works by the major authors are analysed alongside others by non canonical and children's writers
