Material culture : critical concepts in the social sciences. Vol. 3 : Pt. 1 Victor Buchli, 2004 Publisher description

Technological Choices Pierre Lemonnier, 2013-10-15 Technological Choices applies the critical tools of archaeology to the subject of technology and its impact on humankind throughout the ages An examination of the challenges technological innovations present to various cultures Technological Choices asserts that in any society such choices are made on the basis of cultural values and social relations rather than on the inherent benefits in technology itself Of course this revolutionary viewpoint has critical implications for contemporary Western societies Based on case studies covering a wide range of chronologies and geographies Technological Choices moves rapidly from Neolithic Europe to the modern industrial age stopping on the way to examine the tribes of Papua New Guinea rural Indian and North African societies as well as several European peasant communities The techniques studied range from the manufacture of stone implements to the development of high tech transportation devices With its breadth of subject matter and multidisciplinary approach Technological Choices offers new insight into the interrelationship between technology and society Also unprecedented is the book's emphasis on the functional aspects of material culture

The Archaeology of Art Andrew Meirion Jones, Andrew Cochrane, 2018-05-20 How can archaeologists interpret ancient art and images if they do not treat them as symbols or signifiers of identity Traditional approaches to the archaeology of art have borrowed from the history of art and the anthropology of art by focusing on iconography meaning communication and identity This puts the archaeology of art at a disadvantage as an understanding of iconography and meaning requires a detailed knowledge of historical or ethnographic context unavailable to many archaeologists Rather than playing to archaeology's weaknesses the authors argue that an archaeology of art should instead play to archaeology's strength the material character of archaeological evidence Using case studies examining rock art figurines beadwork murals coffin decorations sculpture and architecture from Europe the Americas Asia Australia and north Africa the authors develop an understanding of the affective and effective nature of ancient art and imagery An analysis of a series of material based practices from gesture and improvisation to miniaturisation and gigantism assembly and disassembly and the use of distinctions in colour enable key concepts such as style and meaning to be re imagined as affective practices Recasting the archaeology of art as the study of affects offers a new prospectus for the study of ancient art and imagery

The Swift Creek Gift Neill J. Wallis, 2011-02-23 Assesses Woodland Period interactions using technofunctional mineralogical and chemical data derived from Swift Creek Complicated Stamped sherds A unique dataset for studying past social interactions comes from Swift Creek Complicated Stamped pottery that linked sites throughout much of the Eastern Woodlands but that was primarily distributed over the lower Southeast Although connections have been demonstrated their significance has remained enigmatic How and why were apparently utilitarian vessels or the wooden tools used to make them distributed widely across the landscape This book assesses Woodland Period interactions using technofunctional mineralogical and chemical data derived from Swift Creek Complicated Stamped sherds whose provenience is fully documented from both mortuary mounds and village middens along the Atlantic coast Together these data demonstrate formal and functional differences between mortuary and village assemblages along with the nearly exclusive occurrence of foreign made cooking pots in mortuary contexts The Swift Creek Gift provides insight into the unique workings of gift exchanges to transform seemingly mundane materials like cooking pots into powerful tools of commemoration affiliation and ownership

The Uses of Style in Archaeology Margaret Wright Conkey,Christine Ann Hastorf,1990 This book brings together essays that illustrate the different uses and interpretations of style in archaeology Style is a widely discussed and controversial issue which has always been central for archaeological interpretation The collection considers the history of style in archaeology its relationship to the concept of style in art history and how stylistic analyses will differ according to different initial assumptions The essays show how stylistic interpretation works at different levels and they debate stylistic terminologies and concepts Although these essays show that there is no unified theory of style they underline the importance of continuing creative discussion through different themes and individual case studies

Uruk Mesopotamia & Its Neighbors Mitchell S. Rothman,2001 In Old and New World archaeology the Mesopotamian case has long stood as the model for the evolution of complex societies providing the conceptual and organizational standard for understanding city and state origins But new data on Mesopotamia in the late 5th and 4th millennia BC have been accruing with astonishing speed over the last 20 years opening fresh areas of exploration and debate In Uruk Mesopotamia and Its Neighbours ten of the foremost field archaeologists working in the area today provide an overview and analysis of these data The authors radically reassess the chronological framework for the greater Mesopotamian region assemble basic data sets on both local and regional levels and interpret and synthesize these data to put local patterns and dynamics into their widest regional context With lavish illustration and thorough documentation this volume is destined to become a standard reference work on the state of Mesopotamian archaeology at the beginning of the 21st century Its significance extends beyond the archaeology of the ancient Near East to the wider fields of anthropology and political science      Palaeohistoria ,1986

Kintigh,1985 Beginning about A D 1250 the Zuni area of New Mexico witnessed a massive population aggregation in which the inhabitants of hundreds of widely dispersed villages relocated to a small number of large architecturally planned pueblos Over the next century twenty seven of these pueblos were constructed occupied briefly and then abandoned Another dramatic settlement shift occurred about A D 1400 when the locus of population moved west to the Cities of Cibola discovered by Coronado in 1540 Keith W Kintigh demonstrates how changing agricultural strategies and developing mechanisms of social integration contributed to these population shifts In particular he argues that occupants of the earliest large pueblos relied on runoff agriculture but that gradually spring and river fed irrigation systems were adopted Resultant strengthening of the mechanisms of social integration allowed the increased occupational stability of the protohistorical Zuni towns      Handbook of Archaeological Methods Herbert D.
