Material Engagements Studies In Honour Of Colin Renfrew:

Material Engagements Neil Brodie, 2004 The subject matter of archaeology is the engagement of human beings now and in the past with both the natural world and the material world they have created All aspects of human activity are potentially relevant to archaeological research and conversely the ways in which others especially artists and anthropologists have investigated the world are of interest to archaeologists Archaeological artefacts and sites are also used by groups and nations to establish identity and for financial gain both through tourism and trade in antiquities Colin Renfrew has actively engaged with art with politics and with the antiquities trade and has presented his ideas to broad audiences through accessible books and television programmes as well as championing the cause of archaeology in many public roles The papers in this volume which have been written by colleagues and former students on the occasion of his retirement relate to all of these subject areas and together give some idea of the complexity of the issues raised by critical engagements with the material world both past and present

The Oxford Handbook of Prehistoric Figurines Timothy Insoll, 2017 The Oxford Handbook of Prehistoric Figurines is the first text to offer a comparative survey of figurines from across the globe bringing together myriad contemporary research approaches to provide invaluable insights into their function context meaning and use as well as past thinking on the human body gender and identity

Contemporary Clay and Museum Culture Christie Brown, Julian Stair, Clare Twomey, 2016-06-17 This groundbreaking book is the first to provide a critical overview of the relationship between contemporary ceramics and curatorial practice in museum culture Ceramic objects form a major part of museum collections with connections to anthropology archaeology and other disciplines that engage with the cultural and social history of humankind In recent years museums have provided the impetus for cutting edge artistic practice either as a response to particular collections or as part of exhibitions But the question of how museums have staged contemporary ceramics and how ceramic artists respond to museum collections has not been the subject of published research to date This book examines how ceramic artists have over the last decade begun to animate museum collections in new ways and reflects on the impact that these new initiatives have had in the broad context of visual culture Ceramics in the Expanded Field is the culmination of a three year AHRC funded project and reflects its major findings It brings together leading international voices in the field of ceramics research undertaken throughout the project and papers delivered at the concluding conference By examining the benefits and constraints of interventions and the dialogue between ceramics and museological practice this book will bring focus to an area of museology that has not yet been theorized and will contribute to policy debates and art practice

Prehistoric Britain Timothy Darvill, 2010-07-02 Prehistoric Britain now in its second edition examines the development of human societies in Britain from earliest times to the Roman conquest of AD 43 as revealed by archaeological evidence Special attention is given to six themes which are traced through prehistory subsistence technology ritual trade society and population

Exploring Ancient Sounds and Places Margarita Díaz-Andreu, Neemias Santos da

Rosa,2024-12-31 Archaeoacoustics studies historical sound merging archaeology anthropology and psychology to reveal insights about ancient music and acoustic environments Exploring Ancient Sounds and Places Theoretical and Methodological Approaches to Archaeoacoustics brings together scholars from diverse academic fields including archaeology anthropology architecture classics history art history and sound engineering to shed light on the role of sound and acoustics in the cultural practices of past societies from various chronologies and locations around the world This innovative volume covers a broad spectrum of topics such as the genesis of archaeological investigations into sound the emergence of speech and song in early humans the cognitive effects of music in ritualistic contexts the acoustic dimensions of rock art sites and the emotional responses elicited by sonorous activities experienced in these decorated spaces Additionally the book delves into the study of prehistoric musical instruments the use of ethnohistorical sources in archaeoacoustic research the analysis of sound imagery in medieval frescoes and explores historical approaches to the study of specific acoustic parameters and the sonic properties of urban environments Each chapter not only aggregates a wealth of academic perspectives but also bridges the gap between theoretical concepts and the most advanced methods used in this field of research Case studies from all over the world illustrate the different ways in which ancient communities perceived and engaged with sound and the acoustics of the landscapes in which they were immersed Exploring Ancient Sounds and Places is an essential resource for scholars and students interested in archaeoacoustics and how sound has shaped the cognitive cultural and spiritual facets of human societies across time and space

Vitreous Materials in the Late Bronze Age Aegean Sheffield Centre for Aegean Archaeology. Round Table,2008 The explosion of research in the field of ancient and historic glasses has opened up glass studies in recent years However our deeper understanding of the technology and provenance of Bronze Age Egyptian and Roman glasses in the Mediterranean has not been mirrored by our studies of glasses and other vitreous materials found in the Late Bronze Age Aegean There are few studies which collate the material culture of the region and still fewer which explore the patterning of vitreous materials in the landscape Our knowledge of where the material originated and who used it is still incomplete Therefore in 2005 a group of scholars in the fields of glass studies and Aegean prehistory came together as part of the Sheffield Centre for Aegean Archaeology's Round Table discussions to bring the subject up to date The central themes to this discussion were based upon provenance occurrence and the role of vitreous materials in the Late Bronze Age Mediterranean Nine papers are presented from the discussions by experts in Bronze Age glass and faience and Aegean specialists who examine a fascinating and diverse selection of topics surrounding the production movement use and role of vitreous materials in the Late Bronze Age Aegean The contributions from John Bennet Karen Foster Paul Nicholson George Nightingale Marina Panagiotaki Mark Peters Thilo Rehren Sue Sherratt and Mike Tite bring together our current understanding of these materials and their role in the societies who used them

Art and Cultural Heritage Barbara T. Hoffman,2006 Art and Cultural Heritage is appropriately but not solely about national and international law respecting cultural heritage It is a bubbling cauldron of law mixed with ethics philosophy politics and working principles looking at how cultural heritage law policy and practice should be sculpted from the past as the present becomes the future Art and cultural heritage are two pillars on which a society builds its identity its values its sense of community and the individual The authors explore these demanding concerns untangle basic values and look critically at the conflicts and contradictions in existing art and cultural heritage law and policy in its diverse sectors The rich and provocative contributions collectively provide a reasoned discussion of the issues from a multiplicity of views to permit the reader to understand the theoretical and philosophical underpinnings of the cultural heritage debate Memory Work Barbara J. Mills, William H. Walker, 2008-07 Memory making is a social practice that links people and things together across time and space and ultimately has material consequences The intersection of matter and social practice becomes archaeologically visible through the deposits created during social activities Memories are made not just experienced and their material traces allow us to understand the materiality of these practices Indeed materiality is not just material culture repackaged Instead it is about the interaction of humans and materials within a set of cultural relationships In this book the authors focus on a set of case studies that illustrate how social memories were made through repeated patterned and engaged social practices Memory work also refers to the interpretive activities scholars perform when studying social memory The contributors to this volume share a common goal to map out the different ways in which to study social memories in past societies programmatically and tangibly

Substance, Memory, Display Colin Renfrew, Chris Gosden, Elizabeth DeMarrais, 2004 Contemporary art and modern archaeology are increasingly seen to share much common ground yet their interactions have yet to be fully investigated This innovative volume explores key themes including the role of display in art in the practice of archaeology and in daily life and the material transformations which underlie the physical reality of the archaeological record as much as the creative processes of the contemporary artist Prominent practising artists Simon Callery and Antony Gormley provide seminal papers considering the role of materiality and embodiment in their own work exploring issues that are directly relevant to current archaeological thinking They are joined by archaeologists actively involved with visual approaches including Anwen Cooper Christopher Evans Steven Mithen Joshua Pollard Nicholas Saunders Aaron Watson and the editorial trio The book is lavishly illustrated in colour Symposium, 2005 Explaining Social Change Colin Renfrew, John F. Cherry, Christopher

Scarre, Stephen Shennan, 2004 These papers look at the increasingly influential role of social archaeology an area in which Colin Renfrew has been a key player Topics covered include the development of the human mind trade and exchange social change chiefdoms and states and the archaeology of island societies Bones of the Ancestors Brian Egloff, 2008-04-07

Bones of the Ancestors tells the shadowy story of the Ambum Stone a 3 000 year old carving from Papua New Guinea that found its way onto the antiquities market and then into an important modern museum Archaeological Review from

Cambridge, 2006 Archaeologies of Cult Anna Lucia D'Agata, Aleydis Van de Moortel, 2009 Intended as a tribute to a

pioneer in the field of Cretan cult study 28 of Geraldine Gesell's former students and colleagues present aspects of ritual and religion on Crete In a variety of approaches the discourse ranges in time from the Iron Age to the Bronze Age and in subject matter from cult practices to sacred landscapes A combined bibliography provides a useful reference tool for a survey of literature on the subject Bibliographic Index ,2008 Grounding Knowledge/walking Land Christopher Evans,Yarjung Kromchañ Tamu,Judith Pettigrew,Mark Turin,2009 Tracking knowledge down to ground concerned with trail based archaeology journeys and histories this is a volume of both firsts and thick context At face value it documents almost a decade of groundbreaking investigations within the Annapurna highlands of Nepal Including survey recording of fort and settlement sites from the outset the projects focus was the extraordinary ruins of Kohla Sombre Kohla The Three Villages the ancestral settlement of the Tami mai Gurung community who hosted and instigated the fieldwork programme Ultimately only a single seasons excavation was conducted before the project was cut short by the political insurgency within the country It concluded with holding a great shamans meeting in Pokhara in 2002 at which their historical oral texts were presented Narrating the long migration of the Tamu mai into the region and down from a distant north the present volume includes the full translation of one of these oral epics the Lemako Roh Pye The project represents a unique collaboration between archaeologists anthropologists and a shaman Including interviews with upland inhabitants the volume encompasses the diverse voices of both its immediate participants and the local community Fulsome in its presentation of the archaeological data and rich in ethnographic source material not only is this book crucial for Himalayan culture studies generally but also relevant for any concerned with the construction and context of the past in the present and the active forging of ethno historical identities Stonehenge Timothy Darvill,2006 Looking at Stonehenge this book considers not only its wider setting but also its status in time from 10 000 BC right down to the modern day Annual Review of Anthropology Individuals,2005 This extra length 34th volume of the Annual Review of Anthropology has been reformatted so as to be easier to read a two column layout and to allow for glossary terms acronym spell outs and sidebars in the margins Also new in terms of format are annotated references designed to draw attention to key works in a longer list The Review contains Antony Gormley Antony Gormley,Richard Noble,2007 Over the past twenty years the sculptor Antony Gormley has created some of the most memorable and controversial public art installations across the world This is a guide to his career providing a retrospective of his most significant works Each chapter considers one of 25 projects in a visual essay Ancient West & East G R Tsetschladze,2006-11 Originally published as a double issue of Volume 5 2006 of Brill's bi annual Ancient West East
