Mathematical Astronomy in Medieval Yemen David A. King, 1983 This work surveys over 100 Yemeni astronomical manuscripts preserved in the libraries of Europe and the Near East These sources attest to an active interest in mathematical astronomy in the Yemen from the 10th century to the early 20th century and the writings of various Yemeni astronomers of the 13th and 14th centuries are particularly impressive To the historian of Islamic science some of these works are of interest because they preserve earlier Iraqi and Egyptian astronomical sources which are no longer extant in their original form and to the historian of Islamic institutions others are of interest because they cast new light on the astronomical orientation of the Kaba and on the early history of the institution of prayer in Islam

Islamic Astronomy and Geography David A. King, 2022-02-13 This volume of 12 studies mainly published during the past 15 years begins with an overview of the Islamic astronomy covering not only sophisticated mathematical astronomy and instrumentation but also simple folk astronomy and the ways in which astronomy was used in the service of religion It continues with discussions of the importance of Islamic instruments and scientific manuscript illustrations Three studies deal with the regional schools that developed in Islamic astronomy in this case Egypt and the Maghrib Another focuses on a curious astrological table for calculating the length of life of any individual The notion of the world centred on the sacred Kaaba in Mecca inspired both astronomers and proponents of folk astronomy to propose methods for finding the qibla or sacred direction towards the Kaaba their activities are surveyed here The interaction between the mathematical and folk traditions in astronomy is then illustrated by an 11th century text on the qibla in Transoxania The last three studies deal with an account of the geodetic measurements sponsored by the Caliph al Ma'mun in the 9th century a world map in the tradition of the 11th century polymath al-Biruni as corrupted by careless copying and a table of geographical coordinates from 15th century Egypt

Masterpieces from the Department of Islamic Art in the Metropolitan Museum of Art Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), Maryam Ekhtiar, 2011 This book explores the great diversity and range of Islamic culture through one of the finest collections in the world Published to coincide with the historic reopening of the galleries of the Metropolitan Museum's Islamic Art Department it presents nearly three hundred masterworks created in the rich tradition of the Islamic faith and culture The Metropolitan's renowned holdings range chronologically from the origins of Islam in the 7th century through the 19th century and geographically from as far west as Spain to as far east as Southeast Asia

Studies in the Making of Islamic Science: Knowledge in Motion Muzaffar Iqbal, 2017-05-15 Situated between the Greek Indian and Persian scientific traditions and modern science the Islamic scientific tradition received enriched transformed and then bequeathed scientific knowledge to Europe The articles selected for this volume explore the fascinating process of knowledge in motion between different civilizations

World-maps for

Finding the Direction and Distance to Mecca David King, 2021-09-06 Two remarkable Iranian world maps were discovered in 1989 and 1995 Both are made of brass and date from 17th century Iran Mecca is at the centre and a highly sophisticated longitude and latitude grid enables the user to determine the direction and distance to Mecca for anywhere in the world between Andalusia and China Prior to the discovery of these maps it was thought that such cartographic grids were conceived in Europe ca 1910 This richly illustrated book presents an overview of the ways in which Muslims over the centuries have determined the sacred direction towards Mecca qibla and then describes the two world maps in detail The author shows that the geographical data derives from a 15th century Central Asian source and that the mathematics underlying the grid was developed in 9th century Baghdad Journal for the History of Astronomy, 1985 In Synchrony with the Heavens, Volume 1 Call of the Muezzin David King, 2004-02-01 This is the first investigation of one of the main interests of astronomy in Islamic civilization namely timekeeping by the sun and stars and the regulation of the astronomically defined times of Muslim prayer The study is based on over 500 medieval astronomical manuscripts first identified by the author now preserved in libraries all over the world and originally from the entire Islamic world from the Maghrib to Central Asia and the Yemen The materials presented provide new insights into the early development of the prayer ritual in Islam They also call into question the popular notion that religion could not inspire serious scientific activity Only one of the hundreds of astronomical tables discussed here was known in medieval Europe which is one reason why the entire corpus has remained unknown until the present A second volume also to be published by Brill deals with astronomical instruments for timekeeping and other computing devices Astrologers at Work, 2025-11-27 Astrologers at Work brings together fourteen scholars to explore the history of astrological practice focusing on techniques doctrines and methods of interpretation across cultures and centuries Originating from the Tools of the Art conference organised by the Astra Project in memory of Helena Avelar this volume highlights astrology's technical and intellectual dimensions placing it at the heart of pre modern science and culture Through detailed studies of charts doctrines and practices it reveals the central role astrology played in shaping ideas about nature knowledge and fate This work is a vital contribution to the history of science culture and ideas A Survey of the Scientific Manuscripts in the Egyptian National Library David A. King, 1986

Dreams, Nature, and Practices as Signs of the Future in the Middle Ages Klaus Herbers, Hans-Christian Lehner, 2022-06-13 A great number of historical examples show how desperate people sought to obtain a glimpse of the future or explain certain incidents retrospectively through signs that had occurred in advance In that sense signs are always considered a portent of future events In different societies and at different times the written or unwritten rules regarding their interpretation varied although there was perhaps a common understanding of these processes This present volume collates essays from specialists in the field of prognostication in the European Middle Ages Contributors are Klaus Herbers Wolfram Brandes Zhao Lu Rolf Scheuermann Thomas Kr mpel Bernardo Bertholin Kerr Gaelle Bosseman Julia Eva

Wannenmacher Matthias Kaup Vincent Gossaert J rgen Gebhardt Matthias Gebauer Richard Landes In Synchrony with the Heavens, Volume 2 Instruments of Mass Calculation David King, 2005-06-01 This is the first investigation of one of the main interests of astronomy in Islamic civilization namely timekeeping by the sun and stars and the regulation of the astronomically defined times of Muslim prayer The study is based on over 500 medieval astronomical manuscripts first identified by the author now preserved in libraries all over the world and originally from the entire Islamic world from the Maghrib to Central Asia and the Yemen The materials presented provide new insights into the early development of the prayer ritual in Islam They also call into question the popular notion that religion could not inspire serious scientific activity Only one of the hundreds of astronomical tables discussed here was known in medieval Europe which is one reason why the entire corpus has remained unknown until the present A second volume also to be published by Brill deals with astronomical instruments for timekeeping and other computing devices List of Titles Added to the Catalogue University of London. School of Oriental and African Studies. Library, 1984 Astronomy in the Service of Islam David A. King, 1993 Delineates the two very different traditions of astronomy in medieval Islam legal scholars watched the crescent moon to keep the calendar and used shadows to keep the hours and direction of prayer while astronomers constructed elaborate theories and mathematical tables to approach ever more precision in times and directions The articles are reproduced from their original publication in various journals 1982 91 Mathematical Astronomy in Medieval Yemen David A. King, 1983 This work surveys over 100 Yemeni astronomical manuscripts preserved in the libraries of Europe and the Near East These sources attest to an active interest in mathematical astronomy in the Yemen from the 10th century to the early 20th century and the writings of various Yemeni astronomers of the 13th and 14th centuries are particularly impressive To the historian of Islamic science some of these works are of interest because they preserve earlier Iraqi and Egyptian astronomical sources which are no longer extant in their original form and to the historian of Islamic institutions others are of interest because they cast new light on the astronomical orientation of the Kaba and on the early history of the institution of prayer in Islam MELA Notes , 1981 Greek Painted Pottery from Naukratis in Egyptian Museums Marjorie Susan Venit, 1988 The pottery from Naukratis the original sanctuary is now submerged is dispersed in museums all over the world but the lion s share remains in Egypt particularly in the large collection in the Graeco Roman Museum in Alexandria and until now it has remained almost completely unpublished This book introduces the pottery and provides a rationale behind the classifications of individual fragments including a description of each fragment Newsletter , 1993 The Quarterly Index Islamicus , 1985 Islamic Medical and Scientific Tradition Peter E. Pormann, 2011 Presents a selection of articles that illustrate the intellectual curiosity and theoretical vigour with which Arabs and non Arabs living in the medieval Muslim world pursued scientific endeavours The focus is firmly on articles published during the last 20 years during which the discipline has enjoyed a new bloom in geometry a similar solid is an important concept students need to have a clear understanding of this concept as it may help them in their daily lives so what are similar solids these are two or more shapes that are similar in shape but their sizes are not the same surface area and volume of similar solids byju s - May 16 2022

we can identify similar solids by observing their corresponding dimensions if the corresponding dimensions are proportional then the solids are said to be similar follow the given steps to identify similar solids step 1 determine the dimensions that correspond step 2 calculate the length ratio of the corresponding dimensions

9 8 area and volume of similar solids k12 libretxts - Aug 31 2023

jun 15 2022 scale relationships you can compare the scale relationships of distance area and volume when looking at three dimensional figures some examples of three dimensional figures include a prism or a pyramid when you compare different measurements you will see the proportional relationships between them similar figures solid geometry review at mathalino - Mar 26 2023 similar figures two surfaces or solids are similar if any two corresponding sides or planes are proportional in similar figures of any kind pairs of corresponding line segments such as x_1 x_2 and y_1 y_2 have the same ratio $x_1/x_2 = y_1/y_2$ area volume of similar shapes aqa gcse maths questions answers - Aug 19 2022 the diagram shows two similar solids and solid a has a volume of 80 cm³ work out the volume of solid b finding the volume of a similar solid practice geometry - Jan 24 2023 calculate the volume of the larger cube using the illustration of the two similar solids indicated in the following illustration answers eq text 4 860 yd³ eq area and volume of similar solids read geometry - Jul 30 2023

two solids are similar if and only if they are the same type of solid and their corresponding linear measures radii heights base lengths etc are proportional surface area recall that when two shapes are similar the ratio of the area is the square of the scale factor

12 5 areas and volumes of similar solids flashcards quizlet - Oct 21 2022 created by ddufresne16 terms in this set 6 two solids are similar if and only if their bases are similar and their corresponding lengths are proportional if the scale factor of two similar solids is a/b then the ratio of corresponding perimeters is a/b we have an expert written solution to this problem how to identify similar solids geometry study com - Nov 21 2022 steps to identify similar solids step 1 determine the corresponding dimensions step 2 find the ratio of lengths of the corresponding dimensions step 3 check if the all of the ratios are all
