Pamela Hansford Johnson:

Pamela Hansford Johnson Deirdre David, 2017-06-30 Deirdre David traces the successful writing life of Pamela Hansford Johnson 1912 1981 from the time of her childhood growing up in a theatrical household in South London to her death as the widow of the novelist and popular intellectual C P Snow Forced to leave school at sixteen she trained as a shorthand typist worked for four years in the mid 1930 for a West End Bank and conducted a tumultuous romance with the then 19 year old poet Dylan Thomas Thomas having persuaded her she would become a better novelist than a poet she published a scandalous first novel in 1935 and went on to publish close to thirty more in her career A passionate defender of the narrative traditions of the British novel she contributed many essays and reviews on contemporary fiction to periodicals and newspapers in her own fiction in the nineteenth century traditions of Jane Austen George Eliot and Charles Dickens she focused on the domestic everyday the moral questions facing a rapidly changing society and the challenges and pleasures of urban life She was very much a novelist of the city particularly London She also gained praise and criticism for her writings about violence and pornography especially in her well known analysis of the notorious Moors murder trial With C P Snow she travelled many times to the United States and the Soviet Union and at the time of her death in 1981 she was still at work on her last novel Hers was a rich courageous and politically committed writing life and this biography restores Johnson s work to the critical distinction it received when it was published Pamela Hansford Johnson Ishrat Lindblad, 1982 This Bed

Thy Centre Pamela Hansford Johnson, 1949 Pamela Hansford Johnson Wendy Pollard, 2014 This first biography of Pamela Hansford Johnson 1912 1981 has been written with the full co operation of her three children who allowed Wendy Pollard access to previously unexamined diaries letters and much other material illuminating their mother s eventful and often entertaining life Pamela Hansford Johnson s achievements were all the more remarkable because of her lack of formal education after the age of 16 With no literary contacts to ease her path she nevertheless quickly established herself first as a poet then as a prolific short story writer and after the publication of her first novel she was able to support herself and her mother on her income from writing and reviewing In addition to their aesthetic worth her novels are remarkable for the portraits they paint of almost forgotten yet comparatively recent worlds Her 1930s novels are not set in the privileged surroundings featured in the novels of the majority of her contemporaries but in the down to earth milieu of lower middle class Londoners Her novels of the 1940s and 1950s graphically portray the period of social adjustment during and immediately after the Second World War Later several of her novels focused on moral dilemmas and she also varied her range with a group of well received satirical novels She frequently broadcast on the Third Programme and was a regular panel member on the acclaimed radio programme The Critics and BBC TV s The Brains Trust Her non fiction works include literary monographs on Thomas Wolfe and Ivy Compton Burnett a published series of broadcasts entitled Six Proust Reconstructions and On Iniquity a book length meditation on the Moors Murder Trial on which she reported for the Sunday

Telegraph Her private life was full of incident the earliest being her youthful romance with Dylan Thomas Her first marriage was to an Australian journalist and she subsequently married the novelist and scientist C P later Lord Snow The Snows formed a celebrated literary partnership travelling widely and being feted in academic circles in the USA and the USSR as well as in the UK The biography also recounts the many intrigues in literary circles in the post war years when the Snows later became targets for the emerging satire movement
