Students is designed to provide educational leaders with a better understanding of how to recognize the diversity of strengths that Black students bring with them to school and how to use these strengths to improve achievement. The articles contained in this book discuss generic education issues such as policy reform, the importance of high quality teaching and the improvement of schools from the perspective of the academic achievement of African American students. Part I explores institutional racism in the context of America's public schools and provides suggestions for educational leaders to eliminate harmful policies and practices within educational institutions and settings. Part II discusses the kinds of institutional and instructional changes that are needed to support successful schooling of African American children and youth. Part III focuses on the challenges presented to African American students by the current high stakes testing environment that surrounds standards assessment and accountability. A review of the literature on schools that have succeeded in improving achievement for African American students at the elementary, middle and high school levels with districts moving towards narrowing the achievement gap is included. This text examines a wide variety of policies, programs, practices and research that will provide valuable insight. The emphasis throughout the book is on the ability of educators to successfully restructure their schools, offer high quality teaching and learning standards for African American students and to make the kinds of changes that will result in high achievement for all students.

Addressing Racism Madonna G. Constantine, Derald Wing Sue, 2006-06-27. Learn to identify and combat unintentional and overt racism. This provocative book identifies and addresses racism in mental health and educational settings, providing proven strategies for overcoming this stubborn barrier to culturally competent practice. While addressing overt forms of racism, the book also explores and sensitizes practitioners to covert and unintentional forms of racism that may be equally detrimental in denying persons of color access to unbiased, high quality education and mental health care. Despite the dismantling of overt racist policies such as segregated schooling and the implementation of policies aimed at remedying racial inequities such as affirmative action, racism continues to persist in American society. Drs. Madonna Constantine and Derald Wing Sue, two of the leading researchers and advocates for multicultural competence, have collected sixteen thought-provoking and challenging chapters on the many ways that racism can affect a practitioner's interactions in mental health and school settings. These contributions collectively bring to the forefront highly charged issues that need to be discussed but are too often hidden away.

The book is divided into four parts What Do We Know about Racism Racism in Mental Health Contexts Racism in Educational Settings Eradicating Racism Future Directions Faced with the responsibility of understanding multiple oppressions and the intersections of racism with sexism classism and heterosexism mental health practitioners and educators must be vigilant of their personal role in perpetuating racism This collected work will help you identify forms of racism both within yourself and the systems you work in and then implement strategies to eliminate them Resources in Education ,2000-10
