 George M. Piskurich, 2000-02-10 Get it done fast and get it done right You're busy You don't have the time or the need to wade through the theory of a traditional instructional design book But you do need a basic understanding of what instructional design is and a hands-on to the point method of ensuring that the training and performance interventions you put into place meet the needs of your staff and your organization Right This book is what you've been waiting for If you have any involvement in training or HRD at all you'll find this guide to understanding and creating quick and effective training designs an asset to your work This is the book is for you if You're an occasional instructional designer As a subject matter expert you are from time to time called upon to not only deliver training but to create it This book will teach you what ID is and why it's important Plus you'll find the basic instructional design methodology helpful in quickly creating effective training You're a temporary instructional designer Perhaps you've taken a position as a training professional in a strategic career move or maybe you've just found yourself in the position of providing training for your organization because you're good at it. Either way, you may not be sufficiently prepared for your new responsibilities, so you'll appreciate the comprehensive set of tools this book gives you to work with everything from analyzing your company's training needs to evaluating programs to make sure those needs have been met. You're a seasoned designer. You already know how to design well, but you want a guide that will give you new ideas and methods fast. You're not a designer. You may be a manager or an administrator who determines when training is needed or purchases it from outside vendors. You still need an understanding of what instructional design is and you need to know what your options are. You'll learn about the various delivery methods from traditional classroom instruction to Web-based training and much more. Respected consultant and author George Piskurich has included input and commentary from practitioners and trainers in this one-of-a-kind guide. Find out how these methods are applied in real-world situations and how you can put them to work for you. Educational Media and Technology Yearbook, 1996 Proceeding of the Technologies for Interactive Digital Storytelling and Entertainment (TIDSE) Conference, 2003 Stefan Göbel, 2003 Designing and Developing Web-based Instruction Haomin Wang, Deborah L. Gearhart, 2006 For courses in Web-based Course Design and Online Learning. Designing and Developing Web-based Instruction will help students develop a Web course within the framework of instructional design principles from the foundations of Web-based teaching to applications and management. Designed for novice Web course designers as well as experienced ones, this book is a versatile and helpful resource. Also, this text is accessible to those teaching in a K-12 education, higher education, business, or military context. Multimedia Learning Richard E. Mayer, 2020-07-09 Advances in computer graphic technologies have inspired new efforts to understand the potential of multimedia instruction as a means of promoting human learning. In Multimedia Learning, Third Edition, Richard E. Mayer takes an evidence-based approach to improving education using well-designed multimedia instruction. He reviews 15 principles of multimedia instructional design that are based on more than 200 experimental research studies and grounded in a cognitive theory of how people learn from words and graphics. The result is the latest installment of what Mayer calls the Cognitive Theory of Multimedia Learning, a theory introduced in previous editions of Multimedia Learning and in The Cambridge Handbook of Multimedia Learning, Second Edition. This edition provides an up-to-date and systematic summary of research studies on multimedia learning, supplemented with complementary evidence from around the globe. It is well-suited to graduate and undergraduate courses in psychology, education, computer science, communication, instructional design, and game design. Designing and Producing Media-Based Training Steve Cartwright, G. Phillip Cartwright, 2012-07-26 Training and informational programming has always been an important application of video and is one of the most important applications for multimedia. The use of technology in training for industry, government, health care, and education has increased dramatically in recent years. Video, text, graphics, animation, and sound are combined in various ways to convey concept, attitude, and technical skill.

Designing and Producing Media Based Training examines why how and when you can use technology for training and describes successful approaches to creating effective technology based training It describes the instructional design process scriptwriting multimedia authoring media production and new technology based training delivery systems Among the many topics covered are training delivery trends the training design process defining the audience reproduction program design and production design scripting and storyboarding uses of light and color Written by a highly experienced training consultant Designing and Producing Media Based Training will provide training professionals corporate managers multimedia designers and producers and videomakers with tools for designing effective technology based training programs

Instructional Design for Multimedia Learning Helmut M. Niegemann, 2004-01-01 Since Instructional Design ID has been an established discipline in European countries such as the Netherlands Belgium or the United Kingdom for more than 20 years it seems only natural that it is getting more and more important in the German speaking countries as well In order to produce efficient learning environments for multimedia learning systematic planning is necessary At this point Instructional Design based on the ideas Robert M Gagn developed more than fifty years ago seems to offer interesting solutions The process of designing and developing such environments includes strategic decisions concerning the technical base or the overall pedagogical orientation and ending in the choice between fonts and colours ID is also concerned with methods and tools to support design activities organizational aspects the competencies and attitudes of the designers variables of the context problems of the dissemination and implementation of new educational procedures as well as the questions raised by the efforts to evaluate different aspects of e learning in all its variants The contributions to the 5th International Workshop of the SIG 6 Instructional Design of the European Association for Research on Learning and Instruction EARLI in Erfurt in 2002 compiled in this volume try to offer some solutions and raise new questions A lot more empirical research remains to be done and there is still a lack of new theoretical models This research gap offers a chance to new colleagues especially from countries not yet represented in the scientific community of ID to contribute their ideas
