The Crime in Mind Lisa Rodensky, 2003 This interdisciplinary study of legal and literary narratives argues that the novel's particular power to represent the interior life of its characters both challenges the law's definitions of criminal responsibility and reaffirms them By means of connecting major novelists with prominent jurists and legal historians of the era it offers profound new ways of thinking about the Victorian period

The Image in Mind Charles Taliaferro, Jill Evans, 2011-01-01 A philosophical inquiry into the strengths and weaknesses of theism and naturalism in accounting for the emergence of consciousness the visual imagination and aesthetic values The authors begin by offering an account of modern scientific practice which gives a central place to the visual imagination and aesthetic values They then move to test the explanatory power of naturalism and theism in accounting for consciousness and the very visual imagination and aesthetic values that lie behind and define modern science Taliaferro and Evans argue that evolutionary biology alone is insufficient to account for consciousness the visual imagination and aesthetic values Insofar as naturalism is compelled to go beyond evolutionary biology it does not fare as well as theism in terms of explanatory power

Culture in Mind Bradd Shore, 1998-10-29 Despite the recognized importance of cultural diversity in understanding the modern world the emerging science of cognitive psychology has relied far more on experimental psychology neurobiology and computer science than on cultural anthropology for its models of how we think In this exciting new book anthropologist Bradd Shore has created the first study linking multiculturalism to cognitive psychology exploring the complex relationship between culture in public institutions and in mental representations In so doing he answers in a completely new way the age old question of whether humans are basically the same psychologically independent of cultures or basically diverse because of cultural differences The first half of the book emphasizes cultural models from Australian Aboriginal rituals and Samoan comedy skits to more familiar terrain including a study of baseball as a cultural model for Americans Along the way the author sheds new and novel light on many familiar institutions from educational curricula and shopping malls to modular furniture and cyberpunk fiction These observations are then linked to theoretical developments in linguistics semiotics and neuroscience creating a bold new approach to understanding the role of culture in everyday meaning making The author argues that culture must be considered an intrinsic component of the human mind to a degree that most psychologists and even many anthropologists have not recognized This new position of cultural models will make absorbing reading for psychologists anthropologists linguists and philosophers and to anyone interested in the issues of cultural diversity multiculturalism or cognitive science in general
