Rethinking Canadian Aid Stephen Brown, Molly den Heyer, David R. Black, 2016-06-09 In 2013 the government abolished the Canadian International Development Agency CIDA which had been Canada's flagship foreign aid agency for decades and transferred its functions to the newly renamed Department of Foreign Affairs Trade and Development DFATD. As the government is rethinking Canadian aid and its relationship with other foreign policy and commercial objectives the time is ripe to rethink Canadian aid more broadly. Edited by Stephen Brown, Molly den Heyer and David R. Black this revised edition not only analyzes Canada's past development assistance it also highlights important new opportunities in the context of the recent change in government. Designed to reach a variety of audiences contributions by twenty scholars and experts in the field offer an incisive examination of Canada's record and initiatives in Canadian foreign aid including its relatively recent emphasis on maternal and child health and on the extractive sector as well as the longer term engagement with state fragility. The portrait that emerges is a sobering one. This book is essential reading for anyone interested in Canada's changing role in the world. Published in English.

Martin, 2013-11-11 Since the beginning of the 1980's research has continued to clarify and improve our understanding of the problem of the ecological impact of acidic precipitation. From September 15-20 1985 Canada convened the Muskoka Symposium on Acidic Precipitation to review progress and help chart the direction of future studies. The Conference was held in central Ontario Canada a region of heavy sulphate deposition where aquatic effects are evident. Approximately 700 people attended over 500 of whom were research scientists. Over 400 papers were presented. Nearly 200 of the papers are included in these proceedings which together give the present state of the art of acid rain research. The Conference focused on atmospheric science and aquatic and terrestrial effects. I have made some general observations on progress in clarifying issues and linkages between these areas of research. Outstanding issues which require a great deal more work are identified. These are my views influenced by personal bias and
