Multilateralism And Regional Security:

Multilateralism and Regional Security Lester B. Pearson Canadian International Peacekeeping Training Centre,1997
Examines issues in multilateralism and regional security in Latin America and Central and Eastern Europe

Multilateralism and Regional Security G. V. C. Naidu,2000 Regionalism and Multilateralism Amitav Acharya,2002
These essays written between 1990 and 2000 cover the most significant phase of multilateral institution building in the Asia Pacific region Addressing the most challenging issues of regional order the book articulates an institutionalist understanding of the international relations of the Asia Pacific and should be useful to both schools and policy makers interested in Asia Pacific security China Turns to Multilateralism Guoguang Wu,2007-09-12 China s recent rapid economic growth has drawn global attention to its foreign policy which increasingly has had an impact on world politics In contrast with China s long standing preference for bilateralism or unilateralism in foreign policy recent decades have seen changes in the PRC s attitude and in its declaratory and operational policies with a trend toward the accepting and advocating of multilateralism in international affairs Whilst China s involvement has been primarily in the economic arena for example participation in the World Trade Organization and ASEAN Plus Three it has more recently expanded into international security institutions such as the Shanghai Cooperation Organization This book records analyzes and attempts to conceptualize this phenomenal development in Chinese foreign policy and its impact on international relations with the emphasis on China s active participation in multilaterally oriented regional security regimes Written by an impressive team of international scholars this book is the first collective effort in the field of China studies and international relations to look at China s recent turn to multilateralism in foreign affairs It will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese politics and foreign policy security studies and international relations Nontraditional Security and Multilateralism in Asia Mely Caballero Anthony,2007

Bilateralism, Multilateralism and Asia-Pacific Security William Tow,Brendan Taylor,2013-09-02 Many scholars of international relations in Asia regard bilateralism and multilateralism as alternative and mutually exclusive approaches to security co operation They argue that multilateral associations such as ASEAN will eventually replace the system of bilateral alliances which were the predominant form of U S security co operation with Asia Pacific allies during the Cold War Yet these bilateral alliances continue to be the primary means of the United States strategic engagement with the region This book contends that bilateralism and multilateralism are not mutually exclusive and that bilateralism is likely to continue strong even as multilateralism strengthens It explores a wide range of issues connected with this question It discusses how US bilateral alliances have been reinvigorated in recent years examines how bilateral and multilateral approaches to specific problems can work alongside each other and concludes by considering how patterns of international security are likely to develop in the region in future Multilateralism and Regional Security in Asia Gary J. Smith,1997

Multilateralism and Regional Security Michel Fortmann,S. Neil MacFarlane,Stéphane Roussel,1997

Minilateralism in the Indo-Pacific Bhubbindar Singh, Sarah Teo, 2020-05-05 While US centred bilateralism and ASEAN led multilateralism have largely dominated the post Cold War regional security architecture in the Indo Pacific increasing doubts about their effectiveness have resulted in countries turning to alternative forms of cooperation such as minilateral arrangements Compared to multilateral groupings minilateral platforms are smaller in size as well as more exclusive flexible and functional Both China and the US have contributed to minilateral initiatives in the Indo Pacific In the case of the former there is the Lancang Mekong Cooperation mechanism involving China Cambodia Laos Myanmar Thailand and Vietnam established in 2015 In the case of the latter there has been a revival of the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue in 2017 involving the US Australia Japan and India This book examines the rise of these arrangements their challenges and opportunities as well as their impact on the extant regional security architecture including on the ASEAN led multilateral order A valuable guide for students and policy makers looking to understand the nature and development of minilateralism in the Indo Pacific region

Japan's new security partnerships Wilhelm Vosse, Paul Midford, 2018-08-17 After decades of solely relying on the United States for its national security needs over the last decade Japan has begun to actively develop and deepen its security ties with a growing number of countries and actors in the Asia Pacific region and Europe a development that has further intensified under the Shinzo Abe administration This is the first book that provides a comprehensive analysis of the motives and objectives from both the Japanese and the partner countries perspectives and asks what this might mean for the security architecture in the Asia Pacific region and what lessons can be learned for security cooperation more broadly This book is for those interested in Japan's security policy beyond the US Japan security alliance and non US centred bilateral and multilateral security cooperation It is an ideal textbook for undergraduate and graduate level courses on regional security cooperation and strategic partnerships and Japanese foreign and security policy

Japan's Security Policy and the ASEAN Regional Forum Takeshi Yuzawa, 2007-03-27 Based on primary resources including documents and extensive interviews with Japanese policy makers this book provides a comprehensive and detailed empirical analysis of Japan's involvement in Asia Pacific security multilateralism after the end of the Cold War with special reference to the ARF Giving an in depth account of new developments in Japan's post Cold War security policy Yuzawa also examines Japan's initial motivations expectations and objectives for promoting regional security multilateralism Japan's diplomacy for achieving these objectives and experiences in the ARF since its formation the effectiveness and limitations of the ARF with regards national and Asia Pacific security the effects of Japan's experiences in the ARF on its initial conception of regional security multilateralism and the implications of this for the direction of its overall security policy problems and difficulties that arose as a result of Japan's post Cold War security policy of simultaneously pursuing two different security approaches namely the strengthening of regional security institutions and the Japan US alliance This book will be an invaluable resource for students and scholars of Japanese security studies as well as international relations Asian politics and international organizations

Contested Multilateralism 2.0 and Asian Security Dynamics Kai He, 2020-04-28 In the 1990s there was a wave of multilateralism in the Asia Pacific led primarily by ASEAN. Since the Global Financial Crisis of 2008 however many non ASEAN states have attempted to seize the initiative including the USA, Japan, China, South Korea and Australia. Kai He and his contributors debate the reasons for this contested multilateralism and the impacts it will have on the region's security and political challenges. Will the Indo Pacific turn be a blessing or a curse for regional stability and prosperity? Using a diverse range of theoretical and empirical perspectives these leading scholars contribute views on this question and on the diverse strategies of the great and middle powers in the region. This collection will be of great interest to scholars and students of international relations in the Asia Pacific and of great value to policy makers in the region and beyond.

The Outlook for U.S.-China Relations Following the 1997-1998 Summits Peter H. Koehn, 1999 At the end of the 20th Century the focus of global attention and concern is on the future relationship between the world's most influential nation and its most populous one. The series of high level meetings and the exchange of unusually long summit visits that occupied the center of the world stage in the late 1990s reveal that both sides recognize the other's global importance. In the words of President Bill Clinton the role China chooses to play will powerfully shape the next century. The years 1997 and 1998 will be remembered by many for the critically acclaimed summit visits of Jiang Zemin to the United States and Bill Clinton to China. This book moves beyond the Clinton Jiang summits of 1997-1998 to explore long term prospects in light of recent developments. Nineteen scholars from diverse disciplines including eight from China mainland institutions address the outlook for security relations in the Asia Pacific Region, prospects for strategic partnership, issues concerning Taiwan, Tibet and trade, the potential for information technology and educational exchanges, future competition for natural resources, changing images of each other and other critical dimensions of expanding non state relationships. The interaction of China and the United States promises to constitute the world's most important bilateral relationship well into the 21st Century. To be constructive and enduring relationships must be based on mutual understanding and respect. This volume provides an opportunity to advance both foundations among students, scholars, policy makers and the attentive public in the East and the West.

The Shifting Sands of Japan's Security Landscape Oktay Kucukdegirmenci, 2024-10-31 This book examines how and where Japan's multi tiered security approach which was put forward as a policy that emphasizes Japan's more active role in shaping the regional security order in the light of the changing geopolitical balances in the East Asia Pacific in the post Cold War period has evolved in the context of China's rise in the 2000s, 2010s and present. This book categorizes Japan's foreign and security policy into three tiers: bilateralism, multilateralism and minilateralism. The book offers valuable insights into Japan's foreign and security policies within East Asia and the broader Asia Pacific region including the region's geopolitical landscape and Japan's relationships with major stakeholders. It also contributes to understanding inter regional dynamics and the application of balance of power theory. The book targets policymakers involved in foreign and security policy decisions as well.

Asia's New Multilateralism Michael J. Green, Bates Gill, 2009-03-19 Traditionally stability in Asia has relied on America's bilateral alliances with Japan Australia and the Republic of Korea Yet in recent years emergent and more active multilateral forums such as the Six Party Talks on North Korea and the East Asia Summit have taken precedence engendering both cooperation and competition while reflecting the local concerns of the region Some are concerned that this process is moving toward less inclusive bloc based talking shops and that the future direction and success of these arrangements along with their implications for global and regional security and prosperity remain unclear The fifteen contributors to this volume all leading scholars in the field provide national perspectives on regional institutional architecture and their functional challenges They illuminate areas of cooperation that will move the region toward substantive collaboration convergence of norms and strengthened domestic institutions They also highlight the degree to which institution building in Asia's region composed of liberal democracies authoritarian regimes and anachronistic dictatorship has become an arena for competition among major powers and conflicting norms and assess the future shape of Asian security architecture reviewing a previous edition or volume

China's New Multilateralism in a Globalized World Robert Fiedler, 2010-12 Essay from the year 2008 in the subject Politics International Politics Region Other States grade 1-8 Macquarie University language English abstract During the last two decades China gained rising influence in the international environment Since this rise is observed by many countries with concerns Chinese politicians are eager to promote a less confrontational more sophisticated more confident and at times more constructive approach towards regional and global affairs Medeiros Fravel 2003 In other words China faces the difficulty to become a powerful player in the international system on the one side and to calm the concerns of other nations at the same time on the other side Therefore Chinese politicians recognized the importance of multilateral cooperative mechanisms and the shortcoming of bilateral or unilateral approaches to deal with international issues Wang 2000 p 479 Therefore it is not surprisingly that Beijing increased its efforts to participate in international multilateral institutions in order to create win-win situations Mingquan 2005 However in contrast to many western approaches to multilateralism China emphasizes the principle of sovereignty and non interference in domestic issues by demanding the acceptance of different political military and economic domestic systems Wang 2000 p 479 This evolution of foreign policy also accompanies the growing of power and influence and therefore advanced capabilities to safeguard national interests in international relations Since the security challenges in a post Cold War era have broadened the upcoming great power China Kim 2003 p 37 extended its engagement in international institutions and multilateral agreements Hence in the following this paper will argue that China's new multilateralism is subordinated to Beijing's security interests in a changing globalized world In order to support this thesis central multilateral engagements will be analyzed

Overcoming Isolationism Paul Midford, 2020-07-14 This book asks why in the wake of the Cold War Japan suddenly reversed years of steadfast opposition to security cooperation with its neighbors Long isolated and opposed to multilateral agreements Japan proposed East Asia's first multilateral security forum in the early 1990s emerging as a regional leader Overcoming Isolationism explores what led to this surprising about face and offers a corrective to the misperception that Japan's security strategy is reactive to US pressure and unresponsive to its neighbors Paul Midford draws on newly released official documents and extensive interviews to reveal a quarter century of Japanese leadership in promoting regional security cooperation He demonstrates that Japan has a much more nuanced relationship with its neighbors and has played a more significant leadership role in shaping East Asian security than has previously been recognized

Cross-cultural Dimensions of Multilateral

Non-proliferation and Arms Control Dialogues Canada. Non-Proliferation, Arms Control and Disarmament Division,1997 The papers compiled in this report attempt to determine under what conditions and to what extent cultural factors make a difference in the elaboration and execution of non proliferation arms control and disarmament NACD policies They seek to clarify a concept of security cultures that draws upon the diplomatic political strategic and social elements that go into security policy making Culture as it refers to NACD issues consists of those enduring and widely shared beliefs traditions attitudes and symbols that inform the ways in which a state's or society's interests and values with respect to security stability and peace are perceived articulated and advanced by political actors and elites The papers cover a range of states and regions south east Asia China India Latin America and the Middle East Each examines a range of concrete issues and cases connected with NACD issues and orientations towards security more generally

Regionalism and Multilateralism

Amitav Acharya,2003 These essays written between 1990 and 2000 cover the most significant phase of multilateral institution building in the Asia Pacific region They deal with the emergence of regionalism in Southeast Asia ASEAN's transition to the post Cold War era the role of the ASEAN Regional Forum the engagement of China the changing relationship between sovereignty and regionalism and prospects for the regional institutions such as ASEAN APEC and the ARF after the Asian economic crisis The essays address the most challenging issues of regional order and articulate an institutionalist understanding of international relations in the region This updated second edition includes four new chapters and two revised chapters
