Nonverbal Communication And Translation:

Nonverbal Communication and Translation Fernando Poyatos, 1997 This is the first book within the interdisciplinary field of Nonverbal Communication Studies dealing with the specific tasks and problems involved in the translation of literary works as well as film and television texts and in the live experience of simultaneous and consecutive interpretation. The theoretical and methodological ideas and models it contains should merit the interest not only of students of literature, professional translators and translatologists, interpreters and those engaged in film and television dubbing but also to literary readers, film and theatergoers, linguists and psycholinguists, semioticians, communicationologists and crosscultural anthropologists. Its sixteen contributions by translation scholars and professional interpreters from fifteen countries deal with discourse in translation, intercultural problems, narrative literature, theater, poetry, interpretation and film and television dubbing.

Textual Translation and Live Translation Fernando Poyatos, 2008-09-17 After the many interdisciplinary perspectives on nonverbal communication offered by the author in his previous seven John Benjamins books which have generated a wide range of scholarly applications the present monograph is dominated by a very broad concept of translation. This treatment of translation includes theater and cinema enriching our intellectual sensorial experience of both reading act and viewing act and offers among other topics sensorial, intellectual, emotional, pre and post reading interactions with books, mute or audible oralization of texts, the translator's linguistic and nonverbal cultural fluency and implicit textual paralanguage and kinesics, translating functions of pictorial illustrations, the blind's text and film perception, the foreign reader's cultural background and circumstances, theater and cinema spectators' total sensory intellectual experience of plays and films beyond staging or projection, the multiple interrelationships between cinema and theater performers, spectators and their environments of special interest to all those involved in the theater and the translator's challenging textual perception of sounds and movements. Over 800 literary quotations and two virtually exhaustive English inventories of sound and movement denoting words with many examples offer serious students of translation, language or literature a rich reference and drill source.

Nonverbal Communication Across Disciplines: Narrative literature, theater, cinema, translation Fernando Poyatos, 2002-01-01 Part of a three volume set which takes a cross cultural approach to the subject of nonverbal communication. The Turns of Translation Studies Mary Snell-Hornby, 2006-01-01 What's new in Translation Studies? In offering a critical assessment of recent developments in the young discipline this book sets out to provide an answer as seen from a European perspective today. Many new ideas actually go back well into the past and the German Romantic Age proves to be the starting point. The main focus lies however on the last 20 years and beginning with the cultural turn of the 1980s the study traces what have turned out since then to be groundbreaking contributions, new paradigms as against what was only a change in position on already established territory, shifting viewpoints. Topics of the 1990s include nonverbal communication, gender based Translation Studies, stage translation, new fields of interpreting studies and the effects of new technologies and globalization including the increasingly dominant role of English The author s aim is to stimulate discussion and provoke further debate on the current profile and future perspectives of Translation Studies Nonverbal Communication across Disciplines Fernando Poyatos,2002-03-22 This volume based on the first two identifies the verbal and nonverbal personal and environmental components of narrative and dramaturgic texts and the cinema recreated in the first through the reading act according to gaze mechanism and punctuation and traces the coding decoding processes of the characters semiotic communicative itinerary between writer creator and reader recreator In our total experience of a play or film we depend on the sensory and intellectual relationships between performers audience and the environment of both in a temporal dimension starting on the way to the theater and ending as one comes out Two chapters discuss the speaking face and body of the characters and the explicit and implicit at times unstageable paralanguage kinesics and quasiparalinguistic and extrasomatic and environmental sounds in the novel the theater and the cinema and the functions of personal and environmental silences Another shows the functions limitations and problems of punctuation systems in the creative recreative processes and how a few new symbols and modifications would avoid some ambiguities The stylistic communicative and technical functions of nonverbal repertoires in the literary text are then identified as enriching critical analysis and offering new perspectives in translation Finally literary anthropology developed by the author in the 1970s is is presented as an interdisciplinary area based on synchronic and diachronic analyses of the literatures of the different cultures as a source of anthropological and ethnological data Nearly 1200 quotes from 170 authors and 291 works are added to those in the first two volumes
