Reflect Today's Students and Today's Standards is the essential guide for educators and leaders ready to rethink how we understand, evaluate, and support K-12 science learning. Written by Aneesh Badrinarayan, a leading voice in science education and assessment, this book offers a clear roadmap for designing assessments that surface the brilliance of young people in ways that are meaningful, equitable, and grounded in the lived realities of today's classrooms. Drawing on four core priorities: sensemaking, relevance, assets, and opportunity, this book empowers educators to move beyond traditional tests to create assessments that reveal what students truly understand and can do. Bridging cutting-edge research and practical implementation, this book offers concrete strategies for using phenomena, problematizing strategies, and purposeful prompts to drive authentic sensemaking. Frameworks and tools to develop relevant asset-based assessments that reflect students' strengths and experiences and are specific to a given classroom context. Approaches to using data for targeted feedback and deeper learning. A forward-looking chapter on how to meaningfully integrate AI into science assessment in an age of rapidly evolving technology. Whether you're a K-12 teacher, instructional leader, or assessment designer, Surfacing Brilliance Through Meaningful Science Assessment will transform how you think about using assessment to understand, evaluate, and support student learning. This guide ensures that educators and leaders assess students in ways that center student brilliance, embrace innovation, and inspire learners to achieve ambitious learning goals in science.

Global Health Informatics Education Evelyn J.S. Hovenga, John Mantas, 2004-08-30. Throughout the world, healthcare professionals often lack knowledge of the possibilities and limitations of systematically processing data, information, and knowledge, and of the resulting impact on quality decision-making. They are often asked to use information technologies of which they have limited appreciation in order to enhance their practices through better use of information resources. However, for systematically processing data, information, and knowledge in medicine and in healthcare, healthcare professionals who are well-trained in medical informatics or health informatics are needed. It will only be through improved education of healthcare professionals and through an increase in the number of well-trained workers in health and medical informatics that this lack of knowledge and associated skills can begin to be reversed. Although we can recognize further progress in educating health and a considerable number of educational programs for health informatics, medical informatics specialists have been set up, there is still a need to enhance these educational activities world-wide, considering global developments as well as new curricular concepts and technological opportunities. IMIA and, in particular, its working group on health and medical informatics education is the leading international society stimulating such educational activities in
