East Kalimantan Burhan Djabier Magenda,2010 In recent studies of Indonesia s regional politics one important aspect has largely been neglected the role of the local aristocracies which dominated many of the regions outside Java from the precolonial period through to the formation of the independent Republic of Indonesia in 1949 In his work Burhan Magenda has begun to remedy this neglect He has studied the aristocracies in various regions of the Outer Islands from the colonial period through into the New Order government of President Suharto In covering their history he has examined the strategies used by the local aristocrats to survive and attempt to continue their domination of political power in their regions The focus of this present monograph is East Kalimantan where the local aristocracy was commercial in nature tracing its origin back to the establishment of a spice trade route in the sixteenth century The decline in the nineteenth century of the main harbor principality of Borneo Banjarmasin on the south coast opened the way for other states on the island to play a greater role in particular the sultanate of Kutai in eastern Borneo Burhan Magenda s well documented study opens a new perspective of fundamental importance to our understanding of both the past and current political and economic development of East Kalimantan and of its relationship with the central power in Jakarta It provides an illuminating analysis of strategies by which members of the aristocracy have succeeded in surviving under widely varying conditions Clearly despite the challenges they have encountered over the past 45 years these aristocrats have shown a surprising political resilience Audrey Kahin Ithaca August 1991

Conradian Contracts Tamas Juhasz,2011-04-28 This book treats Joseph Conrad s simultaneous interests in exchange contracts and the condition of displacement The central hypothesis is that the novelist s characters face the option of signing or rejecting what might with some generalization be called a social covenant These individuals conduct a lonely or marginal existence and to ease their isolation they would like to re enter a community For this reason they are ready to contribute to larger collective causes and comply with those restrictions that social life in its contractual aspect requires As Julia Kristeva puts it The foreigner is the one who works yet engagement in transactions in order to earn a social position is fraught with difficulties In return for their contribution these hard working characters do not always receive the compensation that they had in mind especially when their definition of companionship violates the boundaries of legality and social propriety Their private illicit interests are bound to clash with communal ones and the ensuing negotiating readjustment or compromise seeking either crush the individual party or result in a redefinition of the notion of contract This link between exchange and displacement is explored in nine narratives Just as the concept of exile is used in a broad often metaphorical sense ranging from characters who are actual migrants through individuals who occupy a marginal position within their native community to individuals who are caught between conflicting cultural economic models the trade or contractual alliance that can create or at least promise a sense of communal belonging and personal recognition is also manifold in its definition Although it always includes if to varying degrees the transference of economic goods or entering a specific agreement exchange is never limited to legal material procedures
