Losing Paradise:

Post-Structuralism and the Question of History Derek Attridge, Geoff Bennington, Robert Young, 1987 Recent developments in literary theory such as structuralism and deconstruction have come under attack for neglecting history while historically based approaches have been criticized for failing to take account of the problems inherent in their methodological foundations. This collection of essays is unique in that it focuses on the relation between post structuralism and history especially Marxist literary theory and criticism. The volume includes a deconstructive reading of Marx essays that relate history to the philosophical and institutional context and a number of studies of particular texts literary and non literary which pose the question of history and literary theory with particular force. The Home World, 1882 Green Wealth Kevin F. Noon, Judith A. Ward, 2021-07-22 Only a fraction of this country's land can be farmed or developed. What happens to the land that is not economically viable. Until a few years ago the value of such property would have remained flat with little prospect of appreciating. Today however the Federal government has created a huge incentive to turn this land into moneymaking assets. Green Wealth explains how newly enacted laws can benefit those who invest in environmentally reconstituted land development. The Feds along with many state governments now allow for the creation of individual environmental banks which are established by converting unproductive property into new wetlands, endangered species reserves, water storage reservoirs and a host of other types of environmentally protected land. Credits are then issued to the landowners credits that can be sold to developers seeking to build on previously protected properties. As building continues in one place new environmentally sound acreage is created in another. Now you can perform an environmentally responsible service and make a highly profitable investment at the same time. All Animals, 1999 Home Life: what it is and what is Needs John Fothergill Waterhouse Ware, 1873 Losing Paradise, 1985 Longman's English Classics John Milton, 1896
