Loss And Change:

Loss and Change (Psychology Revivals) Peter Marris, 2014-10-10 First published in 1974 then reissued in 1986 with a long introduction by the author which developed the analysis in the light of recent theory and related it to work done in the field since its first publication. The late Peter Marris shows how understanding grief can help us to understand processes of change both personal and social and to handle them with more compassion for ourselves and others. He sees grieving as the working out of a psychological reintegration whose principles are essentially similar whether the structures of meaning of our life fall apart from the loss of a personal relationship of a predictable social context or of an interpretable world. Marris draws on his wide ranging research to develop his argument. A study of widows, a description of the devastating effects of urban renewal projects on people whose familiar neighbourhoods are destroyed, an analysis of the activities of tribal associations in Nigeria and reflections on the analogies between scientific and political revolutions are a few of the studies Marris weaves together in tracing the meaning of change and loss in human life. Loss and Change Peter Marris, 1986

Making Meaning of Loss Richard L. Hayes, 2022-10-31 Making Meaning of Loss Change and Challenge Across the Lifespan is about how change brings loss to our lives, how we make meaning of loss and how our experience with loss directs our encounters with loss in the future. Each loss challenges us in this way to rethink our world view to ask who we have become and to reinvent ourselves anew. Taking a lifespan approach, Hayes examines how we make sense of the losses that change brings in each period of our lives and how the way in which we meet the challenge that each loss brings directs our encounters with loss in the future. In addition, he provides suggestions for how earlier losses can become fruitful allies in encounters with change in the present and how caregivers can help others to make meaning of the loss in their lives. Above all, this book is about how caregivers can help others learn from the losses in their lives and to recognize what part of the past to bring along into the present in constructing a more reliable self for meeting the challenges of an uncertain future.

Seasons of Change Kenneth J. Fallin, 2013-10 Seasons of Change is not just another grief book although that is an important part especially in its focus on the grief encountered in losing a child. It is a book about moving through life transitions and change. It is about learning to maximize our moments as we accept each day as a gift. Loss, Change and Grief Erica Brown, 2012-11-12 First Published in 1999. Helping children come to terms with and be aware of loss, change and grief is an undeveloped area within education although they are universal features of human experience. Here the author fosters a positive attitude to teaching and learning about such issues. She explores many experiences of loss and grief and different beliefs and practices are discussed so that the reader can gain a better understanding of how children grieve. She also provides suggestions for ways in which this topic can be taught within the school curriculum and offers practical suggestions for effective professional collaboration. Loss, Change And Bereavement In Palliative Care Firth, Pam, Luff, Gill, Oliviere, David, 2004-12-01 This text brings together contemporary thinking on loss and bereavement. It draws on international research practice and individual stories from people struggling to understand the meaning of loss including work with bereaved children parents families and adults Living with Grief, Loss and Change Mary Ellen Smith, 2018-09-07 This book addresses the discomfort that many people have with grief. People who are grieving think they need to get over their grief as quickly as possible and people around them need their loved one to get back to normal. Enormous pressure can be placed on a person who is grieving by themselves or others thinking it is something to be fixed rather than a natural state when loss occurs. That loss can also apply to illness disability ageing retirement divorce or even financial security. Living with Grief Loss and Change talks about normalising grief and learning to live a meaningful life with grief as opposed to getting over it. It is not a dry clinical account but instead provides personal real life stories in order for the reader to be able to identify and feel what is being talked about. These stories provide a valuable message I am not alone. It also provides practical strategies in how to better manage grief

Digital Methods Tommaso Venturini, Richard Rogers, 2025-09-04 Tommaso

Venturini and Richard Rogers offer a critical and conceptual introduction to digital methods. In a direct and accessible way the authors provide hands on advice to equip readers with the knowledge they need to understand which digital methods are best suited to their research goals and how to use them. Cutting through theoretical and technical complications they focus on the different practices associated with digital methods to skillfully provide a quick start guide to the art of querying, prompting, API calling, scraping, mining, wrangling, visualizing, crawling, plotting networks and scripting. While embracing the capacity of digital methods to rekindle sociological imagination this book also delves into their limits and biases and reveals the hard labor of digital fieldwork. The book also touches upon the epistemic and political consequences of these methods but with the purpose of providing practical advice for their usage. Digital Methods is a must read for students and scholars of digital social research, media studies, critical data studies, digital humanities, computational social sciences and for those who are interested in digital methods but do not know where to start

Counting Our Losses Darcy L. Harris, 2011-01-19

This text is a valuable resource for clinicians who work with clients dealing with non death, nonfinite and ambiguous losses in their lives. It explores adjustment to change, transition and loss from the perspective of the latest thinking in bereavement theory and research. The specific and unique aspects of different types of loss are discussed such as infertility, aging, chronic illnesses and degenerative conditions, divorce and separation, immigration, adoption, loss of beliefs and loss of employment. Harris and the contributing authors consider these from an experiential perspective rather than a developmental one in order to focus on the key elements of each loss as it may be experienced at any point in the lifespan. Concepts related to adaptation and coping with loss such as resilience, hardiness, meaning making and the assumptive world, transcendence and post traumatic growth are considered as part of the integration of loss into everyday life experience
