Leviathans of Jupiter Ben Bova, 2011-02-01 In Ben Bova's novel JUPITER physicist Grant Archer led an expedition into Jupiter's hostile planetwide ocean attempting to study the unusual and massive creatures that call the planet their home. Unprepared for the hostile environment and crushing pressures Grant's team faced certain death as their ship malfunctioned and slowly sank to the planet's depths. However, one of Jupiter's native creatures, a city-sized leviathan, saved the doomed ship. This creature's act convinced Grant that the huge creatures were intelligent, but he lacked scientific proof. Now several years later, Grant prepares a new expedition to prove once and for all that the huge creatures are intelligent. The new team faces dangers from both the hostile environment and from humans who will do anything to make sure the mission is a failure, even if it means murdering the entire crew. Downes Ommanney, 1971 The Making of International Environmental Treaties Gerry Nagtzaam, 2009 Gerry Nagtzaam contends that in recent decades neoliberal institutionalist scholarship on global environmental regimes has burgeoned as has constructivist scholarship on the key role played by norms in international politics. In this innovative volume, the author sets these interest and norm-based approaches against each other in order to test their ability to illustrate why and how different environmental norms take hold in some regimes and not others. The book explores why some global environmental treaties seek to preserve and protect some parts of nature from human utilization, some seek to conserve certain parts of nature for human development, whilst others allow the reckless exploitation of nature without accounting for the consequences. It tracks the fate of these three underlying environmental norms: preservation, conservation, and exploitation, using case studies on whaling, mining in Antarctica, and tropical timber. The book illustrates how international political battles to shape environmental regimes inevitably result in clashes between these competing environmental norms. This unique study will prove a fascinating read for both academics and practitioners in the fields of international environmental politics and international environmental law Lost Leviathan Francis Downes Ommanney, 1971

Leviathan's Glass Deborah Barnett, 2010-03-02 The equal-armed cross is a symbol as old as mankind, predating the modern cross by millennia. It represents the crossing point between body and spirit. For the true adept, there is another crossing line which bisects the two. The true light of gnosis is represented by this line. At this point, reality and dreams blend and sit not altogether comfortably together. What seems mundane, what could be ordinary, can be transformed into the truly magical at the point of crossing. The Abyss between the Great Sea and the place wherein true wisdom dwells. The experience differs for every adept, and this book is not intended to be a definitive work on crossing The Abyss. Rather, it is designed to open up those centres receptive to the primeval forces which, of necessity, need to be released, tamed, and then banished. Love is the law; love under will. Where the three forces meet, then either chaos ensues or order is created from chaos The Leviathan's Lantern Lauren Santiago, 2025-01-07 Marrowspire humanity's last city clings to the bioluminescent back of the
