

Mont Blanc

The everlasting universe of things
Flows through the mind, and rolls its rapid waves,
Now dark—now glittering—now reflecting gloom—
Now lending splendour, where from secret springs
The source of human thought its tribute brings
Of waters—with a sound but half its own,
Such as a feeble brook will oft assume
In the wild woods, among the mountains lone,
Where waterfalls around it leap for ever,
Where woods and winds contend, and a vast river
Over its rocks ceaselessly bursts and raves.

Letitia Elizabeth Landon - Selected Writings Letitia Elizabeth Landon, 1997-10-07 The work of L E L began to be published when she was only seventeen and in her early twenties Landon had already achieved considerable renown. As a widely envied independent woman in London society however she was increasingly the subject of scandalous gossip. Eventually she married the governor of a colony in West Africa and died under mysterious circumstances soon after arriving in Africa aged thirty six. Landon's life contributed very largely to the nineteenth century archetype of the poet as a breed apart: heroic but doomed. Her poetry however was until very recently largely forgotten; this is the first twentieth century edition of her poems which the editors describe as cold and sentimental at the same time flat and intense. In addition to a broad selection of Landon's poetry and prose this volume also includes a wide variety of contextual materials and a comprehensive bibliography Catalogue of the Liverpool Library Liverpool (England).
