The Medical Profession and Social Reform, 1885-1945 Lloyd C. Taylor, 1974 American Medicine in Transition, 1840-1910 John S. Haller, 1981 Authorized to Heal Sandra Lee Barney, 2003-07-11 In this book Sandra Barney examines the transformation of medical care in Central Appalachia during the Progressive Era and analyzes the influence of women volunteers in promoting the acceptance of professional medicine in the region By highlighting the critical role played by nurses clubwomen ladies auxiliaries and other female constituencies in bringing modern medicine to the mountains she fills a significant gap in gender and regional history Barney explores both the differences that divided women in the reform effort and the common ground that connected them to one another and to the male physicians who profited from their voluntary activity Held together at first by a shared goal of improving the public welfare the coalition between women volunteers and medical professionals began to fracture when the reform agendas of women s groups challenged physicians sovereignty over the form of health care delivery By examining the professionalization of male medical practitioners the gendered nature of the campaign to promote their authority and their displacement of community healers especially female midwives Barney uncovers some of the tensions that evolved within Appalachian society as the region was fundamentally reshaped during the era of industrial development National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1971 Bulletin of the History of Medicine , 1987 Includes the Transactions of the 15th annual meetings of the American Association of the History of Medicine 1939 Bibliography of the History of Medicine , The U.S. Experiment in Social Medicine Alice Sardell, 1988 The first political history of the Community Health Center Program the only federal experiment in social medicine Sardell views the inherent political struggles and the survival of the program on the condition that it only serve the poor Medical Sociology John G. Bruhn, Billy U. Philips, Paula L. s modernity around the world But what did they mean at home to the Chicagoans who designed and built them worked inside their walls and gazed up at their fa ades Answering this multifaceted question Chicago 1890 reveals that early skyscrapers offered hotly debated solutions to the city s toughest problems and in the process fostered an urban culture that spread across the country An ambitious reinterpretation of the works of Louis Sullivan Daniel Burnham and John Wellborn Root this volume uses their towering achievements as a lens through which to view late nineteenth century urban history Joanna Merwood Salisbury sheds new light on many of Chicago s defining events including violent building trade strikes the Haymarket bombing the World s Columbian Exposition and Burnham s Plan of Chicago by situating the Masonic Temple the Monadnock Building and the Reliance Building at the center of the city s cultural and political crosscurrents While architects and property owners saw these pioneering structures as manifestations of a robust American identity immigrant laborers and social reformers viewed them as symbols of capitalism s inequity Illuminated by rich material from the period s popular press and professional journals Merwood Salisbury s chronicle of this contentious history reveals that the skyscraper s vaunted status was never as inevitable as today s skylines suggest

Save the Babies Richard A. Meckel,1990 No bald summary can do justice to Meckel s thoughtful analysis of the interactions between political medical public health and lay interests involved in early baby saving campaigns and of their relevance to the more recent structure of infant care services Anyone interested in the modern debate on infant welfare will read this book with both pleasure and profit Bulletin of the History of Medicine
