

TELL YOUR HEALTHCARE PROVIDERS:

- if you have medication allergies or if you have had problems when taking a medication before
- about any illness or medical condition you have, such as diabetes or high blood pressure
- if you follow a special diet or take dietary supplements
- if you use tobacco or alcohol
- about other healthcare providers who may have prescribed medication or suggested that you take a vitamin or herbal supplement
- if you are pregnant or if you are nursing a baby

MEDICATION STORAGE

- Don't store medications in the bathroom medicine cabinet. Because of the heat and humidity that build up in a bathroom, it is the worst place to store medications. Keep medications away from humidity, heat, and sunlight, which can affect their potency.
- Store medications where children can't see or reach them, such as a locked box or cabinet.
- Keep medications for people separate from pet medications or household chemicals.

MANAGING YOUR MEDICATION

You can get the most from your medications by taking an active role in your health care. Be sure you are absolutely clear about how and when to take your medication. Let your healthcare provider know if you are even slightly uncertain about how to take your medication or how the medication fits into your treatment plan.

- Find out the exact name of each of your medications — both the generic name and the brand name. Ask what each medication is supposed to do.
- Make sure you are taking the medication correctly. Know exactly how much medication you are to take. Know the time of day you should take the medications, and how you should take them — with or without food.
- Ask if there are any foods you should avoid. Some foods can affect the way a medication works. For example, grapefruit and grapefruit juice can alter the effects of many prescription drugs. Foods containing vitamin K, such as liver and green leafy vegetables, can decrease the effectiveness of anticoagulant medications (such as Coumadin®).
- Ask if alcohol will interfere with any of your medications. Always follow your healthcare provider's advice concerning the use of alcohol.

KEEP A RECORD OF YOUR MEDICATIONS

Write down the name of each medication, what it is for, and a description of what the medication looks like. Include vitamins, dietary supplements, herbal remedies, and over-the-counter medications in your list. Write down the dose and when you are to take the medication as well as the name of the doctor who prescribed it. Take your list along every time you see any of your healthcare providers. They might not know about the medications other doctors have prescribed for you.
