A Course of Lectures on Medicine to Nurses (Classic Reprint) Herbert E. Cuff,2018-03-20 Excerpt from A Course of Lectures on Medicine to Nurses In these lectures I have sought in some degree to supply this want avoiding as far as possible the use of technical expressions My plan has been to start with a short account of the anatomy and physiology of the affected organ explaining brie y the changes produced in it by the disease then to describe such symptoms as can be observed by a nurse pointing out those features in the case which bear upon the patient s chances of recovery and finally to give reasons for the various steps in the treatment and nursing One cannot explain symptoms without some reference to pathology nor can the latter be understood without the assistance of anatomy and physiology About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an to dispense furnish or prescribe drugs is the central tension of the book What is clear throughout this history is that the elusive and fine line between medicine and nursing is fluid especially in times and places where nurses are particularly needed Nursing and the Privilege of Prescription 1893 2000 provides historical data that could inform health policy today
