Media Memories Of Cork:

Performing Memory in Art and Popular Culture Liedeke Plate, Anneke Smelik, 2013-04-02 This volume pursues a new line of research in cultural memory studies by understanding memory as a performative act in art and popular culture. The authors take their cue from the observation that art and popular culture enact memory and generate processes of memory. They do memory and in this doing of memory new questions about the cultural dimensions of memory arise. How do art objects and artistic practices perform the past in the present? What is their relationship to the archive? Does the past speak in the performed past or do we speak to it? To what purpose do objects recall? And for whom do they recollect? Here authors combine a methodological focus on memory as performance with a theoretical focus on art and popular culture as practices of remembrance. The essays in the book thus analyze what is at stake in the complex processes of remembering and forgetting of recollecting and disremembering of amnesia and anamnesis that make up cultural memory. Mediating

Historical Responsibility Guido Bartolini, Joseph Ford, 2024-07-01 Mediating Historical Responsibility brings together leading scholars and new voices in the interdisciplinary fields of memory studies, history and cultural studies to explore the ways culture and cultural representations have been at the forefront of bringing the memory of past injustices to the attention of audiences for many years. Engaging with the darkest pages of twentieth century European history dealing with the legacy of colonialism, war crimes, genocides, dictatorships and racism, the authors of this collection of critical essays address Europe's difficult pasts through the study of cultural products, examining historical narratives, literary texts, films, documentaries, theatre, poetry, graphic novels, visual artworks, material heritage and the cultural and political reception of official government reports. Adopting an intermedial approach to the study of European history, the book probes the relationship between memory and responsibility, investigating what it means to take responsibility for the past and showing how cultural products are fundamentally entangled in this process. A Post-Nationalist History of Television in Ireland Edward

Brennan, 2019-01-25 This book explores the question of how society has changed with the introduction of private screens. Taking the history of television in Ireland as a case study due to its position at the intersection of British and American media influences, this work argues that internationally the transnational nature of television has been obscured by a reliance on institutional historical sources. This has in turn muted the diversity of audience experiences in terms of class, gender and geography. By shifting the focus away from the default national lens and instead turning to audience memories as a key source, A Post Nationalist History of Television in Ireland defies the notion of a homogenous national television experience and embraces the diverse and transnational nature of watching television. Turning to people's memories of past media, this study ultimately suggests that the arrival of the television in Ireland and elsewhere was part of a long term incremental change where the domestic and the intimate became increasingly fused with the global. Are You Still Below? Miriam Nyhan, Miriam Nyhan Grey, 2007 In 1917 Henry Ford selected Cork for the first purpose built Ford factory outside North

America During its 67 years it saw the establishment of a new state Civil War World War Two the EEC and countless changes which impacted on Ford's endeavour This is the story of the Ford Marina plant its economic social and cultural impact

Remembering Hope Ann Rigney, 2025-10-10 In Remembering Hope Ann Rigney examines the role of storytelling in transferring hope in social transformation from one generation of activists to another She uses the tools of cultural memory studies to explain how shared narratives about protest are produced using words images video and performance Rigney's long term approach shows that cultural memory and activism are deeply entwined across generations and reveals how cultural memory work has been used as a form of resistance to historical outcomes and as a tool for kick starting older campaigns in new contexts Above all the book challenges the assumption that grievance rather than active citizenship has always been at the heart of collective memory

Ireland and Masculinities in History Rebecca Anne Barr, Sean Brady, Jane McGaughey, 2019-01-21 This edited collection presents a selection of essays on the history of Irish masculinities Beginning with representations of masculinity in eighteenth century drama economics and satire and concluding with work on the politics of masculinity post Good Friday Agreement in Northern Ireland the collection advances the importance of masculinities in our understanding of Irish history and historiography Using a variety of approaches including literary and legal theory as well as cultural political and local histories this collection illuminates the differing forms roles and representations of Irish masculinities Themes include the politicisation of Irishmen in both the Republic of Ireland and in Northern Ireland muscular manliness in the Irish Diaspora Orangewomen and political agency the disruptive possibility of the rural bachelor and aspirational constructions of boyhood Several essays explore how masculinity is constructed and performed by women thus emphasizing the necessity of differentiating masculinity from maleness These essays demonstrate the value of gender and masculinities for historical research and the transformative potential of these concepts in how we envision Ireland's past present and future

ICMTS 2002, 2002 Monochrome Memories Paul Grainge, 2002-09-30 Through engaging case studies on news magazines Hollywood film brand advertising and movie colorization this volume examines the resurgence of the black and white image in the 90s

Outsider Cinema Ciara Chambers, 2025-11-30 The portrayal of Ireland on screen has been problematic due to a lack of a sustained indigenous film industry before the establishment of the Irish Film Board in 1980 and the Northern Ireland Film Council in 1989 However before this many talented and proficient non professional filmmakers were capturing events that hold valuable clues to an internal social and historical perspective on twentieth century Ireland Northern Ireland has a rich heritage of amateur and independent cinema that includes several prolific filmmakers and collectives Many of these image makers garnered awards on the prestigious international independent film circuit and had their work shown in film festivals and on television Crucially they offered an alternative and illuminating view to the mainstream cinema and broadcast media imagery of a conflicted region that was often filmed but little understood They also laid the groundwork for the vibrant film culture that exists in Northern Ireland today This book will offer the first scholarly exploration of these cine auteurs Oral History ,2008 Women and the Decade of Commemorations Oona Frawley,2021-01-26 When women are erased from history what are we left with Between 1912 and 1922 Ireland experienced sweeping social and political change including the Easter Rising World War I the Irish Civil War the fight for Irish women s suffrage the founding of the Abbey Theatre and the passage of the Home Rule Bill In preparation for the centennial of this epic decade the Irish government formed a group of experts to oversee the ways in which the country would remember this monumental time Unfortunately the group was formed with no attempt at gender balance Women and the Decade of Commemorations edited by Oona Frawley highlights not only the responsibilities of Irish women past and present but it also privileges women s scholarship in an attempt to redress what has been a long standing imbalance For example contributors note the role of the Waking the Feminists movement which was ignited when in 2016 the Abbey Theater released its male dominated centenary program They also discuss the importance of addressing missing history and curating memory to correct the historical record when it comes to remembering revolution Together the essays in Women and the Decade of Commemorations consider the impact of women s unseen unsung work which has been critically important in shaping Ireland a country that continues to struggle with honoring the full role of women today
