Medieval Dublin II Friends of Medieval Dublin. Symposium, Seán Duffy, Friends of Medieval Dublin, 2001 This book contains the proceedings of a second public symposium held by the Friends of Medieval Dublin in 2000 Medieval Dublin II Friends of Medieval Dublin. Symposium, Seán Duffy, Friends of Medieval Dublin, 2001 This book contains the proceedings of a second public symposium held by the Friends of Medieval Dublin in 2000 Dublin David Dickson, 2014-11-24 As rich and diverse as its subject Dickson's magisterial history brings 1 400 years of Dublin vividly to life from its medieval incarnation through the neoclassical eighteenth century the Easter Rising that convulsed the city in 1916 the bloody civil war following the handover of power by Britain to end of millennium urban renewal efforts Exploring Ireland's Viking-Age Towns Rebecca Boyd, 2023-10-20 Exploring Ireland's Viking Age Towns discusses the emergence of towns urban lifestyles and urban identities in Ireland This coincides with the arrival of the Vikings and the appearance of the post and wattle Type 1 house These houses reflect this crucial transition to urban living with its attendant changes for individuals households and society Exploring Ireland's Viking Age Towns uses household archaeology as a lens to explore the materiality variability and day to day experiences of living in these houses It moves from the intimate scale of individual households to the larger scale of Ireland's earliest urban communities For the first time this book considers how these houses were more than just buildings they were homes important places where people lived worked and died These new towns were busy places with a multitude of people ideas and things This book uses the mass of archaeological data to undertake comparative analyses of houses and properties artefact distribution patterns and access analysis studies to interrogate some 500 Viking Age urban houses This analysis is structured in three parts an investigation of the houses the households and the town Exploring Ireland's Viking Age Towns discusses how these new urban households managed their homes to create a sense of place and belonging in these new environments and allow themselves to develop a new urban identity This book is suited to advanced students and specialists of the Viking Age in Ireland but archaeologists and historians of the early medieval and Viking worlds will find much of interest here It will also appeal to readers with interests in the archaeology of house and home households identities and urban studies Viking and Ecclesiastical Interactions in the Irish Sea Area from the 9th to 11th Centuries Danica Ramsey-Brimberg, 2024-05-15 Different approaches have been conducted to analyse the interactions of the different belief systems in the early medieval world This book assesses the relationship between clerics and Scandinavian influenced laity in the Irish Sea area through the placement of furnished graves at or near ecclesiastical sites in the ninth through the eleventh centuries Other areas of funerary studies have moved beyond a dichotomy of Christianity and paganism acknowledging that practices can be multifaceted Yet statements regarding Viking Age furnished graves in or near ecclesiastical sites are still not as pervasively open to this line of thinking To bridge this gap this book delves into the historiography and context of the burial practices through multidisciplinary analysis The ecclesiastical sites and furnished graves of the eastern southwest

Scotland and northwest England central Isle of Man and western Ireland and Northern Ireland Irish Sea areas are then examined using various sources to understand their contexts and relationships In the final chapters the sites and graves are brought together to identify any trends any unique circumstances that led to local variances and their fit into the larger picture Viking Age furnished graves can be seen as an acceptable variation among an array of burial practices and the relationship between the clergy and laity is far more complex and closely tied than has been portrayed Viking and Ecclesiastical Interactions in the Irish Sea Area from the 9th to 11th Centuries will appeal to students and scholars alike interested in the history of the Vikings in the British Irish Isles and their relationships with ecclesiastical institutions

Brian Boru and the Battle of Clontarf Sean Duffy, 2013-10-11 Brian Boru is the most famous Irish person before the modern era whose death at the Battle of Clontarf in 1014 is one of the few events in the whole of Ireland's medieval history to retain a place in the popular imagination Once we were told that Brian the Great Christian king gave his life in a battle on Good Friday against pagan Viking enemies whose defeat banished them from Ireland forever More recent interpretations of the Battle of Clontarf have played down the role of the Vikings and portrayed it as merely the final act in a rebellion against Brian the king of Munster by his enemies in Leinster and Dublin This book proposes a far reaching reassessment of Brian Boru and Clontarf By examining Brian's family history and tracing his career from its earliest days it uncovers the origins of Brian's greatness and explains precisely how he changed Irish political life forever Brian Boru and the Battle of Clontarf offers a new interpretation of the role of the Vikings in Irish affairs and explains how Brian emerged from obscurity to attain the high kingship of Ireland because of his exploitation of the Viking presence And it concludes that Clontarf was deemed a triumph despite Brian's death because of what he averted a major new Viking offensive in Ireland on that fateful day

Trepanation Robert Arnott, Stanley Finger, Chris Smith, 2005-09-26 This volume will look at the history of trepanation the identification of skulls the tools used to make the cranial openings and theories as to why trepanation might have been performed many thousands of years ago Trepanation: History, Discovery, Theory Robert Arnott, Stanley Finger, Chris Smith, 2003 This volume will look at the history of trepanation the identification of skulls the tools used to make the cranial openings and theories as to why trepanation might have been performed many thousands of years ago The Walled Towns of Ireland Avril Thomas, 1992 Vol 1 provides a comparative study of walled towns in Ireland reviews the conceptual basis of towns and the distribution of walled towns is examined from historical and geographical viewpoints Vol 2 provides a gazetteer to 91 sites Jacket The Priory of Llanthony Prima and Secunda in Ireland, 1172-1541 Arlene Hogan, 2008 When Henry II departed Ireland in 1172 he handed over to Hugh de Lacy I the generous gift of the land of Meath an enormous tract of land which covered the modern counties of Meath Westmeath and parts of Longford and Offaly The tithes of this land together with lands in Dublin were granted to his favoured house of Llanthony situated on his estates in the valley of Ewyras in Wales The subsequent arrival in Ireland of the knights of Hugh de Lacy I and the settlement of many of his Irish lands is recorded in the charters contained in the Irish cartularies of Llanthony Prima and Secunda The growth of the Llanthony estates in Ireland both in terms of landholding and the holding of ecclesiastical revenues in the form of tithes can be mapped from a reading of the Llanthony charters in chronological order For the most part the charters are concerned with the tithes of land and ecclesiastical benefices both in the lordship of Meath and outside granted to them by Hugh de Lacy I his family and knights and with the subsequent documentation in relation to those grants A survey of the later charters reveals a complex prosopographical pattern of familial ties interwoven with the tenacious patronage and advocacy of the landed gentry who identified with Llanthony down through the centuries from the earliest settlement in the twelfth century until the Dissolution in the sixteenth a period of almost four hundred years Irish Economic and Social History ,2002

Bjork,2010-06-24 The Oxford Dictionary of the Middle Ages is an outstanding resource for anyone studying or with an interest in all aspects of European history society religion and culture from 500 to 1500 Its 5 000 plus entries written by over 800 international scholars provide uniquely broad balanced and authoritative coverage of the period Proceedings of the Eighth Viking Congress, Århus, 24-31 August 1977 Hans Bekker-Nielsen,Peter Foote,Olaf Olsen,1981 Medieval Dublin Ian Broad,Bride Rosney,Friends of Medieval Dublin. Associates of the Friends of Medieval Dublin,1982-01-01 Anglo-Irish and Gaelic Women in Ireland, C. 1170-1540 Gillian Kenny,2007 Gillian Kenny provides a coherent picture of the lives of women in medieval Ireland through an examination of their marital circumstances By comparing and contrasting the differing lives of Anglo Irish and Gaelic singlewomen wives widows and nuns of late medieval Ireland the author tries to identify how their functions and roles in society were affected by the differing rights enjoyed and by the restrictions imposed by their different societies The book is constructed to reflect thematically the standard marital progression of women in medieval Ireland both Gaelic and Anglo Irish from singlewomen to wives to widows The machinery of church and state dominated and controlled how women conducted their lives Within these structures however women were able to differing extents to transmit and receive land and movables to work for a living as tradeswomen craftswomen or merchants or to devote themselves to the spiritual life as singlewomen wives or widows
